ADJOURNMENT DEFEAT HITS WHITE HOUSE

Stunning Vote Comes After Warning It Would Be Insult to FDR.

REPUBLICANS HAPPY

Call For Action on Labor Amendments and Vote on Walter-Logan Bill.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON— Jubilant Republican congressional leaders who mustered the coalition vote against adjournment of congress called today for action on the Walter-Logan bill and amendments to the national labor relations act.

Both have passed the house but were stymied by New Deal leaders in the senate. The Walter-Logan bill, which the senate may take up Nov. 22, would subject rulings and regulations of quasi-judicial agencies to judicial review.

Amendments to the labor act were drafted after an investigation of complaints by the American Federation of Labor and by employers.

Democratic congressional leaders are off to a bad start as a prelude to President Roosevelt's third term with a congress in their hands for which neither they nor the White House has a program. It was the second administration effort to wave congress home, but in this latter one Mr. Roosevelt said he was strictly neutral. Rep. Thomas F. Ford. D., Calif., warned the house that it would be an "insult" to the president to refuse to adjourn.

House minority Leader Joseph W. Martin, jr., marking up another of his legislative victories, proposed action on the Walter-Logan and labor act bills.

The 191-to-148 vote by which the house rejected adjournment came late yesterday. The president said it made no difference to him, that he still had no business for congress although he might send up some nominations for military promotions. Wendell L. Willkie had urged that congress remain in session.

The house met at noon today, its leaders uncertain what to do next. The senate has recessed until noon Nov. 22, the day after Thanksgiving. Speaker Sam Rayburn, rebuffed by the house on the first major issue raised since he succeeded to the chair, said no further effort would be made "for some time" to obtain adjournment.

Take 1700 Mile Trip But Fail To Get Their Man

Sheriff E. P. Long and Prosecutor G. W. Marriott returned from a 1,700-mile trip to Marion, Ark., last night, but they didn't get their man.

Marriott made the long trip to appeal to the Arkansas governor for the extradition of John W. Wilburn, wanted here on a bad check charge. Sheriff Long planned to bring Wilburn back if he was released.

Hearing of the Prosecutor's appeal was set for Dec. 4 at Little Rock, the state capital, and the Richland county authorities must wait until then to learn whether they can return the prisoner for grand jury action.

Wilburn, accused of issuing two $20 checks in Mansfield last winter without having funds to cover them, is being held on a similar charge in Arkansas. The warrant for his arrest here was filed by R. M. Calene, manager of the J. C. Penney company.

The sheriff and prosecutor made the trip by automobile in four days. If they go back after Wilburn, the sheriff said they will go by train.

NEWSPAPER FIRE

RAVENNA—(AP)—The plant of the Evening Record, Ravenna daily newspaper, was damaged last night by fire which started in the newsboys' room. Crews worked throughout the night to repair the press and clean machinery in an effort to publish today. Publisher Gordon Dix estimated damage at $5,000.

Park Meters Get 'Play' 2 Days Early

Complete Installation of Devices In Time for Friday Start.

(Picture on Page 3.)

Nickels and pennies rattled into parking meters on downtown streets today although the machines, part of which have been installed, will not go into operation officially until Friday morning.

Some of the money dropped into the devices today was inserted by persons who were merely interested in seeing how the gadgets worked, while a few motorists innocently put coins in the machines although metered parking will not go into effect until day after tomorrow.

At that time installation of 414 of the manually operated machines will be complete and every motorist who drives into a metered parking place, must, if the flag is showing, insert either a nickel of from one to five pennies, depending on the length of time he expects to leave his car on the street.

In the event the red "violation" flag is not visible, it means that someone elese has paid to use the space but drove away before his time was up.

The face of the meter will show how much time remains before another coin is due and the red flag appears. Cars parked where the red flag is showing will be tagged by police.

Representatives of the Michaels Art Bronze company, Covington, Ky., placed 114 of the meter heads on Walnut and Main streets yesterday. They expect to finish the installation on Diamond, Fourth and Third streets, and Park avenue, and around Central park either today or tomorrow.

Meanwhile city council, meeting in special session last night agreed to hire a collector and designated the Mansfield Savings Trust National bank as auditing agent for meter funds.

INJURY FATAL

Galion Man Dies In Hospital After Hunting Mishap.

Injuries received in an unusual hunting accident five days ago caused the death today of David M. Sipes, 73, of Galion in General hospital here.

Mr. Sipes was hunting with his sons, Ralph and Loren, and a grandson, Jack Sipes, near Fulton, Morrow county, last Saturday when he accidentally discharged a double-barrel shotgun he was carrying. The gun stock was thrust backward into Mr. Sipes' abdomen by the charge, reopening an old injury.

Funeral services for Mr. Sipes, a carpenter and resident of Galion for 40 years, had not been arranged today. The body is at the Snyder funeral home in Galion.

Surviving are the widow, Mrs. Mary Sipes; five sons and one daughter.

INCOMPETENT

LIMA —(AP)— Dr. Ewing V. Crawfis, assistant superintendent of the Lima State hospital for criminal insane, reported that Dalton Stockdale, 23, former Fostoria high school athlete accused of slaying his mother last Oct. 14, was mentally incompetent.

Shirley Ann's Glad, Turkeys Are Sad

Shirley Ann Yoakum, 6, looks very glad, and the turkey gobblers look very sad, which is just what you'd expect the day before Thanksgiving, for Shirley Ann's going to eat turkey, and the gobblers are going to be eaten. These two big fellows, who have been residents at the R. B. Gardner turkey farm southeast of Mansfield, will grace someone's table tomorrow. Mansfield will celebrate the holiday with tons of turkey meat, ducks and chickens. Shirley Ann jr., Madison avenue.

Mansfield Closes Shop to Observe Thanksgiving

Special Religious Services, Feasting In Homes to Take Place During Holiday; Schools Stage Programs.

Mansfield will turn the key on all business and industry tomorrow, tuck a napkin under its affluent chin and prepare to enjoy the holiday in time honored fashion, with special programs and feasting in homes.

Thanksgiving is one of the six holidays of the year when most all cities close shop in celebration of a day that is distinctly American in origin and tradition. It is the anniversary of that long ago day sturdy Pilgrim colonists in thanksgiving for the bountiful harvests which meant life to them.

This afternoon public and parochial schools closed for the remainder of the week and more than 6,850 school children in the city will have a four-day vacation. Postal workers, too will have a vacation, for there will be no deliveries except special delivery letters tomorrow.

Appropriate programs were planned for the grade schools and at St. Peter's school there were to be historical skits, music and readings this afternoon.

For the second consecutive year, Thanksgiving is being celebrated a week earlier than the traditional last Thursday in November. The date was changed last year by President Roosevelt at the request of national retail business organizations in order to provide a longer Christmas shopping period which always opens Thanksgiving week.

Ohio is one of the 32 states observing Thanksgiving on Nov. (Continued on Page 3, Col. 6.)

HIT AND RUN

Motorist Doesn't Argue After Losing Race With Train.

MONROE, N. C. — (AP) — An automobile collided with a train here and was dragged a short distance down the tracks. But that didn't end the matter.

The driver threw his machine into reverse, backed to the road and roared away—with smashed headlights and a twisted door.

JAP QUAKES

Temblors Rock Wide Area In Northern Japan.

TOKYO—(INS)—An earthquake rocked northern Japan early today.

The shocks, the first of which were recorded shortly after midnight, were felt over a wide area.

First reports indicated that towns within a 400 mile zone between Tokyo and Hokkaido were effected.

The temblors in the Iwate and Miyagi districts were of sufficient intensity to cause residents to flee homes to the safety of open fields.

Whether any damage was caused could not be immediately determined.

BACK PICTURE FOOLS INSECTS

Mosquitos Peck Away Happily At Nude Art.

DECATUR, Ill. —(AP)— Remember about the legendary painting of a bunch of grapes which looked so natural the birds pecked at it?

Well, listen to this one: On exhibit at James Milliken university were several paintings, including one called the "nude back."

Art department heads insist that they found two mosquitos perched on the "back" feverishly boring away.

NO PARKING

Back Alley Salesmanship Gets Boys In "Dutch."

SEATTLE —(AP)— Two boys sold parking space in an alley back of their house to six motorists seeing a University of Washington football game.

Police impounded the cars. The boys' father paid $5 fines for all six motorists. The boys are going without spending money for a while.

VEHEMENT

Talks With Hands And Throws Shoulder Out of Joint.

DENVER —(AP)— Uninjured in a minor traffic collision, a Denver motorist gesticulated so vigorously in the ensuing argument that he dislocated his left shoulder.

WARNING GIVEN HUNTERS HERE

Sheriff Tells Farmers To File Charges Against Those Who Shoot Near Homes.

After receiving a number of complaints from farmers, Sheriff E. P. Long today warned hunters about shooting near houses and hunting on farm lands without permission of the owners.

"There's a state law against hunting without permission and the destruction of property by hunters, and we are going to enforce it in the county," the sheriff said.

He urged farmers and other property owners to get the hunting license numbers of trespassers and file affidavits against the violators. Hunters are required to wear their numbers on the backs of their hunting coats where they can be seen easily.

One property owner near Mansfield told officers a hunter fired directly at his house, the shot scattering over the side of the residence.

Other farmers complained that hunters endangered the lives of farm animals with their careless shooting and that hunters frequently disregarded no hunting signs to climb fences and trample crops.

"Hunters can't be too careful about shooting around farm buildings and homes, even when they have permission to hunt, and we are going to do something about it when we have reports of damaged property," Sheriff Long added.

TRADE BALANCE HITS NEW PEAK

Commerce Analysts Not Satisfied With Present Record.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— America's favorable foreign trade balance reached almost $1,400,000,000 for the first year of the European war—the highest peak since 1921—but commerce department analysts evinced little satisfaction today over the record.

"Our export trade is becoming more and more a war or artificial trade," said Louis Domeratzky, chief of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce division of regional information.

He was commenting in an interview on the fact that the United States shipped more than $4,000,000,000 worth of goods abroad in the 12 months ending Sept. 1.

This was a gain of 37 per cent over the previous corresponding period and compared with the 22 per cent increase during the first World war year of 1914-15.

ELEVATOR BURNS

FREMONT —(AP)— The Irvin T. Fangboner company elevator at Clyde, seven miles east of here, was destroyed by fire last night. Company officials said it contained 5,000 bushels of grain.

Thanksgiving Edition of N-J Contains 'Shop Early' Message

The Thanksgiving edition of The News-Journal, which will be delivered before noon tomorrow, will actually be a gigantic invitation to start Christmas shopping in Mansfield stores early.

There will be 32 pages of pictures, reading material and store announcements. It has been a custom of many years for Thanksgiving—or rather, the day after.—to mark the opening of the Christmas shopping season.

Practically every retail store in Mansfield has its Christmas merchandise on display and some idea of the attractive things to be found in these stocks may be gained from carefully reading the announcements.

There will be pictures in tomorrow's edition that were taken in Mansfield stores by The News-Journal's cameraman; pictures of gift suggestions and of wearing apparel modeled by Mansfield young people.

And there will be pictures taken in Mansfield's toylands, not only of the exciting array of toys but of small youngsters who came within range of the cameraman's eye.

The News-Journal staff will "put the paper to bed" early tomorrow morning. News wires will be kept open until the last minute before press time in order to bring readers the latest international, national and local news.

LEWIS SPIKES HOPE OF UNION PEACE TREATY

Retiring CIO President Hits Movement as Waste of Time For Labor.

DEFEATS HILLMAN

Murray Gets Backing of Big Groups But Declare's He's Not Candidate.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—John L. Lewis had the laurels of a major victory in the CIO convention over Sidney Hillman and advocates of new efforts for labor peace today, but there appeared to be no certainty that Hillman would be overwhelmed if the Communist issue should reach the convention floor.

Lewis was the victor yesterday with a battering attack aimed alternately at William Green and the American Federation of Labor high command and Hillman's Amalgamated Clothing Workers union. The convention gave Lewis a thumping vote on his policy of simply maintaining a peace committee clothed with power to negotiate with the AFL.

The Hillman bloc wanted the CIO delegates to consider an immediate move to re-explore possibilities of ending labor's civil war. But Lewis replied—in one of the convention's most turbulent sessions—that there would be no labor peace until CIO demonstrated its strength to "bargain for peace on equal terms" with the AFL.

The Hillman group also wants CIO to take a stand against Communism, Nazism and Fascism, an issue which is reported to be a large factor in determining whether CIO Vice President Philip Murray will agree to take the CIO presidency Lewis will vacate this week.

Murray served notice on the convention yesterday that he was not a candidate for Lewis' job and did not want it, and that his interest in labor was the "promotion of our ideals, our concepts (Continued on Page 12, Col. 4.)

JAIL SUSPECT

Police Hold Ex-Convict In Slugging of Salesman.

A 22-year-old ex-convict was held in City jail today as a suspect in the slugging and robbery of a salesman last night.

The youth, a former Shelby resident, was picked up by officers in the north-end this morning, after Dudley Lea, of Findlay, identified pictures of him as the man who slugged him and then rifled his pockets of about $90.

He later picked the youth from a police line-up but the paroled inmate steadfastly denied to detectives that he had any connection with the assault.

Lea told police this morning that he met the man in a North Park street cafe and later both got into his car to go to a north side establishment. They stopped the car in an alley and when they got out, Lea said the suspect hit him over the head and in the face injuring his eye.

NAZI REPRISAL THREATS MADE

Germans Angered By Attack Upon Potsdam.

BERLIN —(AP)— A threat of dire reprisals against England for a Royal Air Force attack on Potsdam was voiced by the Nazi press today as German authorities claimed a "paralyzing blow" to Britain's war industry in a 16-hour raid on Birmingham.

All sections of the press lashed out against Britain for raids carried out on Berlin and Potsdam, recalling the warning of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler that British cities "will be eradicated" in retaliation for assaults against Germany.

The official news agency DNB was particularly incensed by disclosure that R. A. F. bombs had fallen on Potsdam, which the service described as "the world famous city of Frederick the Great."

Spain, Rumania And Bulgaria Feel Pressure

Turkish Press Warns Citizens of War Danger, Blackouts Ordered; New Nazi Aerial Blitzkrieg Hits Industrial Birmingham.

(By Associated Press)

Hungary joined the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo axis today, giving Adolf Hitler a military corridor stretching 250 miles deeper into southeast Europe—toward Greece, Turkey and the Suez canal.

The protocol, signed in Hitler's presence in Vienna, binds Hungary to the original triple alliance sealed in Berlin last Sept. 27, pledging Germany, Italy and Japan to mutual aid against any new entrant in either the European or Chinese wars.

At that time, the pact was said to be aimed at keeping the United States from an open declaration of war at Britain's side against the snow-balling totalitarian bloc.

Informed quarters in Budapest said that Spain, Rumania and Bulgaria may be next to join the Axis, and that pressure may fall quickly on neutral Yugoslavia.

Authorized Nazi quarters in Berlin have indicated that a gigantic Axis military operation is in the wind—an attempt to "bottle up" the Mediterranean by synchronized attacks on the Suez canal in the east and Britain's rock bastion of Gibraltar in the west.

In statistical terms, the entry of Hungary into the Axis-proclaimed "new order" in Europe added 58,530 square miles and a population of about 12,000,000, mostly of Magyar origin. Army experts have estimated Hungary has 500,000 men under arms.

With Turkey among the possible targets of a new Axis campaign in southeast Europe, the Turkish press frankly warned its readers that the danger of war was near. The Turkish government prepared blackout regulations.

A curious sidelight of Hungary's entrance into the so-called "coalition of Europe against Britain" was that it was swiftly and officially made public.

By contrast, previous conversations held either by Hitler or his Axis partner, Benito Mussolini, with leaders of Rumania, Bulgaria, France and Russia—presumably for the same purpose—have been attended by strict official silence.

SUBJECTION: Hitler Sets Stage for Extension of War

By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT
(AP Foreign Affairs Writer)

The "new order" which Hitler is painstakingly constructing in southeastern Europe opens up an entirely new phase of the science of subjection.

Hungary, inducted today with a thunder of drums into the Berlin-Rome-Tokyo alliance, becomes the model. The other stepping stones in Germany's pathway to the Near East: Rumania, Bulgaria — and, most important, Turkey—are expected to get successively in step. Greece, because she resisted Italy, may simply be crushed.

The alliance itself and its "one for all and all for one" terms are largely window dressing, insofar as Hitler's real design is concerned.

The real importance of the method is this: Germany believes she has found a way to get these small nations to pull their own weight in the Nazi war to annihilate England by making them into protectorates, and avoiding altogether the expense, ruin and drain of invasion, military occupation and maintenance.

Vast Nazi armies eat their heads off from Norway's rocky northern tip to the beaches of Brittany. German boots stamp on the cobblestones from Warsaw to Brest. There are beaten, desperate people to be watched, fed, imprisoned.

But in the southeast, on his way to Syria, Palestine and Suez, Hitler means to avoid all that.

By WALLACE CARROLL
(Copyright, 1940, By United Press)

DUBLIN, Eire—Premier Eamon De Valera affirms Ireland's determination to remain neutral

He explained to me why he could not surrender to Britain naval bases on the south and west coast of Ireland which Britain restored to Ireland in 1938.

He made it clear at the outset that he did not wish to say anything which might foster ill feeling between Ireland and Britain. His consistent aim, he said, has been to secure understanding and good will. But he made it equally clear that Ireland will not change her attitude about the bases.

"It must be remembered," he said, "that these Irish ports had been held by Britain against the will of the Irish people. In giving them back Britain was only restoring to Ireland what was her own. It was an act of restitution.

"I am not denying if one had been using something that belongs to another, to give it back to the rightful owner is sacrifice, and a repression of selfishness which is difficult. But if there is to be justice in the world at all such sacrifices must be made.

"This question is one which involves our national sovereignty and our people's will. It also is one which involves the safety of our people.

"You in the United States are 3,000 miles away from immediate bombing. If we handed over the ports to Britain we would thereby involve ourselves directly in the war with all its consequences.

"I can understand Britain's position and if I could do anything to relieve the suffering of the British people I would do so. All our international efforts of years past have had as their principal purpose the saving of the peoples of Europe from their present plight.

"Our principle purpose now must be to save our people. We think of the world as a whole because we are part of it. But it is primarily with the welfare of our people if at the Irish government must concern itself."

This Is the Life!

Spiral Puttees, Choker Collar Gone With Other 1917 Ordeals

This is the second of a series of stories about the life you draftees will live in army camps.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
(AP Feature Service Writer)

WASHINGTON—There's a word for the new citizen army uniform.

"Swank!"

The uniform will try to improve on the army tradition of making a soldier's garb easy on the eyes of fair maidens and doting mothers. And this time, they're trying to make Mr. Buck Private more comfortable, too.

The most welcome difference between 1918 and now will be the blouse collar. Coat to you, civilian. Reason? The standing choker type collar of World war days was the devil's own plague to army tailors. If the choker fit, the shoulder didn't. If the shoulder fit, the back wrinkled like a washtub rubadub.

So a regular turned-odwn coat collar like yours and mine is the style. Coat pleats make the arm swing free. The soft-collared wool shirt and conventional black tie are staying.

Those blankety-blank britches that laced up tight around the knees and the endless roll puttees are out. One reason, few manufacturers can make them. Another, there's little military common sense in 'em. Regular trousers without cuffs are in. Canvas leggings tuck in the legs in wet going.

Winter uniforms are of wool. Cotton shirts and shorts in the South, long handled underwear and caps with ear muffs in extremely cold areas. Short mackinaws in the South, long overcoats up North. Shoes: standard army last, high-top tan lace-ups.

But, Mom, P. S., pack your son's own shaving kit, two changes of underwear and make him take his overcoat for the trip to camp. He'll need 'em before he gets army clothing. The standard safety razor kit won't be issued, either, before he actually goes in the army. And some pocket change, too. He may not get that 30 bucks a month for 30 days.

Tomorrow: Provisions for spending leisure time.

Spiral leggings and tight-laced breeches, as at left, are going out. (Some rookies will get old uniforms, however, until all the old-style suits are issued.) The new style for privates is shown at right. The army experimented with slate blue cloth, but went back to olive drab.

SH! SILENCE PLEASE, BUCYRUS STUDIES ANTI-NOISE ORDINANCE

BUCYRUS—First reading of a 14 point nuisance ordinance which if adopted should make Bucyrus the quietest city in the state, was given before city council Tuesday night during regular session.

The legislation, which grew out of a complaint registered by East Mansfield residences against music machines operating until a late hour of the night, specifies 14 points of unnecessary noises which must be suppressed and regulated if the ordinance is accepted by council.

Among the points indicated as unnecessary noises are the sounding of horns or other signaling devices unless as a danger warning; playing of musical instruments between the hours of 11 p. m. and 7 a. m.; harboring any animal or bird which disturbs the comfort or repose of residents; use of old automobiles or motorcycles which make unnecessary noises, steam whistles, exhausts from steam engines, bells, use of amplifiers or loud speakers, shouting of peddlers or unnecessary noises in loading or unloading or repair work in residential territories except between the hours of 7 a. m. and 6 p. m.

The ordinance provides that violators will be fined not less than one dollar or more than $20 and that each point of the legislation will be considered as a violation.

Council also heard a report from Safety Director Carl Jacobs on the city hospital and the relief setup for the month of October.

Jacobs reported total earnings at the hospital in October at $4,807.62. During the month there were 1256 patient days and a total of 110 operations were performed. Jacobs also reported that walls at the new hospital annex would be completed today.

Total relief expenditures for October were $1,521.42 of which $279 was in work relief. A total of 299 individuals received relief during the month.

The city was given promise of a skating pond this winter when Councilman Bruce Sharrock, chairman of the park committee reported that the service department was co-operating in the project. The location of the pond has not been decided upon.

THEATERS

Three Rangers.

In the story of three gallant galoots with a leaning to larceny, "Rangers of Fortune," showing at the Ohio is a film of action with plenty of adventure, romance and comedy. Fred MacMurray and Patricia Morrison are in the romantic leads. It describes three desert marauders, fugitives from a Mexican firing squad, who happen into a feud between a heroic newspaper publisher and a land pirate in a small Texas town.

Gloria Jean Sings.

Patterned along the same lines as "The Under-Pup," a show which proved a hit for Gloria Jean, "A Little Bit of Heaven" comes for today, Thursday and Friday at the Madison. Others in the cast include C. Aubrey Smith, Hugh Herbert and Nan Grey. Miss Jean sings five numbers in her new hit. Co-feature is "Blondie Plays Cupid," one of the famous Bumstead series, based upon the comic strip created by Chic Young. Penny Singleton, Arthur Lake and Larry Sims have the family roles.

Variety on Bill.

"They Drive By Night," a thrilling drama, co-starring George Raft and Ann Sheridan, is showing through Thursday at the Ritz. Second attraction is a story which will appeal to old and young alike, "Girl From Avenue A," and which stars Jane Withers. In this film Jane grows up from a bowery spitfire to a refined young lady on Park avenue. Kent Taylor, Katharine Aldridge and Elyse Knox have supporting roles.

Career Girls of Skyways.

Showing through Thursday at the Majestic are the double feature films" Virginia City" with Errol Flynn and Miriam Hopkins and "Flight Angels," with Virginia Bruce, Dennis Morgan, Wayne Morris, Ralph Bellamy and Jane Wyman in the leads. The latter picture is a story of those career girls of the skyways—the airline hostesses. Comedy, adventure and romance are blended in this drama for real entertainment.

New Bill Thursday.

Coming Thursday at the Park are the features "Billy, the Kid, Returns," starring Roy Rogers and Smiley Burnette and "He Stayed for Breakfast," with Loretta Young and Melvyn Douglas. The latter picture, set in a Paris background, hilariously describes the romance of a politically-conscious cafe waiter and the estranged wife of a pompous banker. Douglas has the former role, and Eugene Pallette is the banker.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"OF COURSE I'll keep the line as clean as I can," she said. "And I'll get Sam and Jerry back to the house."

"No, please don't do that," I said, knowing that while Mrs. Ticer could keep her garrulous tongue under control when there was necessity for it, her indolent, good-natured slow-talking husband, Sam, and her gangling, awkward, likable son, Jerry, were "something else again," although what Dicky would term "stout fellas" in any emergency. They would not mean to betray a confidence, but I could not be sure of them.

"You can readily see." I went on haltingly, "that we do not wish a word of this to go beyond those who know of it already."

"You don't need to say anything more," she said. "Those two of mine don't mean to spill things, but their tongues are hung in the middle. When they have to know anything I stand guard over them with a pickaxe. So I won't say a word to them. You can depend on that."

"I know it," I said. "I always can depend on you in any emergency. And now I think I shall say good-bye for the present. It is unwise, I think, to talk of this over the telephone any more than we can help."

"That's right," she said quickly. "Good-bye."

I quickly masked my dolorous face as I heard my mother-in-law's anxious voice behind me.

"Margaret," she demanded. "Where has Richard gone?"

"I don't know," I told her.

"Do you expect me to believe that?" she retorted tartly. "It's kind of you to try to spare my feelings, but I'm not a child, and when I see my son rushing like mad down the road just after he has told me that awful news about Marion. I know he must have had some more news that made him go out. And he was talking to you just before he left. I saw him rush in here and then rush out again. You have been on the telephone ever since or I would have talked to you before. Of course you can keep everything from me if you wish, but I would worry a lot less, if I knew exactly what he was doing."

I took a deep breath and plunged directly into the story of Marion's telephone call to me, and the events which had followed it. She listened quietly but with patent avid interest, and interrupted me but once when I encountered the ruse by which Mrs. Ticer had let me know that Marion was telephoning from her home.

"I didn't know the dratted woman had that much gumption in her," she said caustically, yet with admiration.

"But when I had finished my saga with the account of Dicky's dash down the road after the fleeing car which contained Marion and her dubious escort, my mother-in-law's keen mind comprehended the danger.

"Two men in that car, probably gangsters," she said, "and Richard single-handed against them, for he won't hesitate to tackle them. I pray God he doesn't catch up to them."

"But Marion," I said weakly.

"I'm thinking of my son," she said sternly. "Besides Marion evidently has brought this on herself, through ignorance or folly, or probably both."

I had no answer for that argument, for secretly I partly sympathized with it, although something in Marion's voice had made me believe she was convinced she had the strongest reason for what she was doing. I did not believe, could not believe, that the raucous-voiced man who had hauled Marion back to his car had any romantic attraction whatever for her.

Through the partly open door behind us, Katie, in wild excitement fairly erupted into the room.

"Oh! Missis Graham!" she exclaimed. "Old mans, your fader, he call und call for you from hees door. He say you coom ofer hees room qveeck."

Town Says Even Cats Are Found In Its Mail Boxes

INDIANAPOLIS —(U.P.)— The old joke of posting mail in the fire-alarm box or the waste paper cans has now taken a new turn according to Postmaster Adolph Siedenstricker.

Many things have been found in the mail boxes in the past.

Several cats have been rescued after being imprisoned by mischievous boys.

Women often drop their purses into the boxes and remain on guard until the mail collector passes, only to find that she has to make a trip to the main post-office to be identified and get her purse.

Coins, bills and checks often are found in the boxes, and the postmaster tells of the girl sent to a bank by a downtown firm who dropped the company's bankbook and a considerable amount of money into one of the boxes.

Pickpockets seem to find the mail boxes particularly convenient for disposing of rifled purses and pocketbooks, Siedenstricker said.

One carrier found a tiny silver and diamond wrist watch in one of the boxes on his route. When he got to the postoffice with it, the girl who had lost it was waiting. One of her friends had found it and dropped it into the box for safekeeping, then told her she would be able to get it at the postoffice.

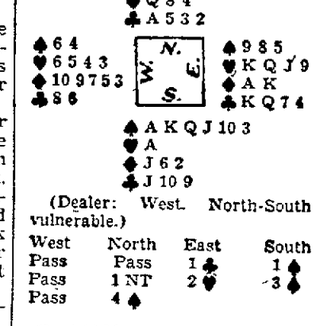
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE RUFFING SQUEEZE.

If you want to show your friends a pretty play, you can hardly pick anything more attractive than what is usually called a "trump squeeze," sometimes described as a "ruffing squeeze." It is effective in a situation which shows one defender with ability to keep following with higher cards in a suit you are trying to establish by ruffing his winners. By playing the winning cards of some other suit, you may oblige him to choose between discarding a winner in a third suit or throwing away a necessary card in the suit you have been trying to establish. If he does the latter, you can then ruff up a winner for yourself.



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	1 ♣	1 ♠
Pass	1 NT	2 ♥	3 ♠
Pass	4 ♠

That bidding never occurred, because this hand never was dealt, but was framed up by Edwin N. Moore, captain of the Union League club team in New York, who is a great enthusiast about squeezes, as a neat example of a trump squeeze. The bidding shown is what might have occurred to get the side into a spade game, with East showing a lot of strength, so that South might read the situation.

Let it be presumed that West, in response to his partner's opening bid, led the club 8 to the Q, and that East cashed his two diamonds and returned the heart K to the A. South can then run all but one of his spades, which would complete the first nine tricks. He would then retain in his own hand two clubs, the diamond J and the spade 3. Dummy would keep the heart 10-8, diamond Q and club A.

To protect the heart situation East would have to hold his heart Q-J, and to guard clubs the K-7. When South leads to the diamond Q, then, what will East toss? If a heart, the ruff of a heart sets up the dummy's other one; if a club, he sets up the winning trick in that suit. Pretty, isn't it?

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

If the first five tricks are the heart K overtaken by the A, the heart 7 ruffed, the club K to the A, the spade J to the A and the spade 10 to the K, the club J being returned, can South make 4-Spades on this deal, and if so, how?

HOROSCOPE

The planetary auspices for this day indicate a state of affairs working at cross-purposes, with the impulses and tendencies disposed to be free, magnanimous expansive and aspiring and at the same time timid, conservative, close, and moody, torn between urges of optimism, limitation and despondency. Such confusion and disaffection may culminate in a mood to dispose of the things that must be done in the easiest way, perhaps without regard to probity of integrity. This mood may have devastating reactions.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year in which they should exercise determined resolve to avoid the easiest and debatable ways of accomplishment. They may be torn between great ideas and yearnings to do things in a big way, with emotions, expansive, noble and ambitious, then to be shaken by doubts, depressions, apprehension and a sense of frustration. Ultimately yielding to ways of expediency rather than principle, with dire responses on the intimate associations.

A child born on this day may manifest a rather dual mode of conduct with noble, great, generous and magnanimous traits and expansive ambitions and aspirations, but with these qualities beset by fears, qualms, depressions and moods that may thwart its highest fulfillments, unless given early direction in the greater choice.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. When they get tired and don't work right in the daytime, many people have to get up nights. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't neglect this condition and lose valuable, restful sleep.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may also cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CHAPTER I

Glory Stevens stood in her wedding gown before the long, old-fashioned mirror. A tulle veil fell like mist about her shoulders, but the girl's face was whiter than her dress. Her blue eyes were drenched with tears; beneath the wedding finery her heart was beating furiously. Even the rain splashed against the windows of the big, rambling old house seemed to mock her.

"I can't go through with it!" she cried suddenly.

Beth Adams stared at her in surprise.

"Why, Glory, what do you mean?"

"That's what I'm trying to tell you," the other girl flared, jittery with nerves and despair. "I thought I could marry Arthur but I can't. I never should have promised to marry him."

"But you love him," her friend protested, shocked.

Glory began to pace the floor.

"No," she confessed. "Oh, I'm fond of him but I've never been in love with any one really. For the last year daddy has been urging me to marry Arthur and settle down—but I don't want to marry any one."

"You don't want to be married?" Beth asked round-eyed." But, Glory, I don't understand. I've been your best friend for nineteen years and you've never said such a thing to me before."

"I've never admitted it to any one," Glory sighed. "Because I knew it wasn't the way I was supposed to feel. Oh, I've tried! For daddy's sake I've tried to be like all the rest of you. But there's only one thing I want to do . . ."

"You mean go to Hollywood?" Beth asked disapprovingly.

"Well, why not? My mother was an actress and a good one. She gave it up to marry a small town lawyer and I think she was happy. But I wouldn't be. I know now I have to be free." Glory stretched her arms dramatically. "I want romance but I want adventure and excitement, too. I can't be just a housewife for the rest of my life. I hate this place and I've got to get away."

Beth stared at Glory as if she had lost her mind. Yet it was true Glory didn't look like the rest of them. The other girls had always been jealous of her beauty. Her figure was slender but exquisitely proportioned. Her blue eyes could be angelic or mocking or black with rage. Her skin was as white as the pear blossom in her father's yard, and her long silky black hair, which she wore parted in the middle like a madonna, gave her an appearance unlike any one else in the little town.

Glory's mother had been different, too, Beth reflected. Madeline Stevens, who died when Glory was thirteen, had been loved for her warm heart and loyalty to the man she married. She had not talked about the career she renounced for her husband's sake, but even her silence made every one conscious of it. The townsfolk knew why when she had named her baby Glory. How could a girl with a name like that be expected to be like the Beths and Anns and Margerys? She walked and wore her clothes with a poise which seemed sophisticated, yet Beth knew that actually her friend was less experienced than many of those who envied her.

Yet this was a situation that Beth recognized as dangerous. What could she do or say to keep Glory from the plan she suspected had sprung into her mind?

There were footsteps in the hall outside and a knock on the door.

"Almost ready honey?" Glory's father asked happily.

The two girls exchanged glances.

"Not yet, Daddy! Just a little while longer," Glory replied.

They listened in silence to his steps descending the stairs, then Glory began to tear the veil from her hair with frantic fingers.

"Glory," Beth whispered, "you mustn't do that. Think of your father."

But it was useless. In that second that Glory had heard his knock upon the door she had made up her mind.

"It's my life!" she said struggling out of the white satin dress. "Help me, Beth! Quick! I've got to make the seven o'clock train."

"You'll have to have some money," her friend reminded her.

"I have a check. Mike will cash it for me at the station."

"Your wedding present?"

Glory nodded, snapping the slide fastener of the gray wool suit which was to have been her "going away" outfit.

"Daddy will be furious," she admitted. "But someday I'll pay his back."

"And Arthur?" Beth urged.

"Oh, Beth, you must make them both understand that I didn't intend to do this. I meant to go through with it. Truly I did...."

* * *

She was pulling a turban over her black curls. Imbued with the thrill of the drama in which she, too, had a part, Beth began to close and fasten the suitcases.

"Don't you think you ought to at least tell your father about it?" she suggested.

"No, because if I do he'll talk me out of it. You see, Beth, it's what he's always been afraid of . . . I'll never forget the scene we had when I brought it up three years ago. I promised him then I'd never mention it again. Well, I haven't . . ."

Glory sounded hard but tears were aching in her throat. "Don't stop to feel sorry for him," she whispered to herself. "If you do you'll never go."

"It's twenty minutes to seven," she said to Beth. 'Every one else is already at the church. Daddy has gone out to the garage to get the car. While he's there I'll slip out the front way and take yours. Stall him off, Beth . . . until you hear the train."

The other girl began to cry.

"Oh, Glory, I can't . . . What shall I tell him? What can I say?"

"The truth," Glory advised. "I'll write to him later. Just as soon as I know where I'm going to be."

Gathering up gloves and bags, she opened the door and listened.

Five minutes later she was in her friend's car driving down Main street. The train from Chicago to Los Angeles passed through in fifteen minutes. She would barely have time to make it. Mike Carter, who had known her all her life, stared at her in surprise as she thrust the check signed by her father through the ticket window.

"Why, Glory, what's happened? I thought you and Arthur were getting married tonight."

"I changed my mind," Glory announced desperately. "Look, Mike, please cash this check for me and give me a one-way ticket to California."

Mike whistled.

"Pretty far away from home, isn't it?"

"Yes, but I've got to go. I can't face all the fuss and comment. Please, Mike, please!"

The station master looked at his watch. "She's a couple of minutes late. You've got plenty of time. You'll have to get your berth after you get on the train."

His calmness irritated her already jangled nerves. "Oh, Mike, hurry, hurry!" she begged as he opened the safe.

"Three hundred dollars. That's a lot of money," he said, glancing admiringly at the trim figure before him, the heart-shaped face and excited, glowing eyes.

"You going to try to get into the movies, Glory?"

She nodded eagerly. "How did you know?"

The old man laughed.

"Well, that's what most people go to Hollywood for, isn't it? Goodness knows you're pretty enough, Glory. A regular glamour girl, that's what you are."

"Glamour girl," Glory's heart leaped at the magic words. She could have kissed the weather-beaten face behind the wicket but she said, "Thank you, Mike. You're a darling to say so."

Anxiously she walked to the door and glanced up the hill. Had her father discovered her absence yet? Would he come after her? But there was no sign of his car on the long, tree-lined street.

There was a little group standing on the platform but every one she knew would be at the church waiting to see her marry Arthur Landis. The thought of him contracted her throat with pity. He had a way of throwing back his head and laughing but his eyes were big and blue and serious. He was a nice boy and she was fond of him. They had had happy times together and her father had insisted that he would make her a good husband . . . But she couldn't do it. She knew when she looked at the reflection of the bride in her mirror that she couldn't have married the most wonderful man in the world. Not at nineteen . . . with the world enchantingly spread in front of her. It wasn't fair to expect her to settle down before she had even a glimpse of it.

Wittenberg-Heidelberg Game Tops Turkey Day Slate

Seven Games On Tap

Case and Reserve Tilt For Cleveland's Big Four Title Also Listed.

COLUMBUS—(AP) Wittenberg battles underdog Heidelberg tomorrow for the Ohio conference football championship.

That conflict at Springfield tops a seven-game Thanksgiving day program, which also features Case and Western Reserve in a tilt for Cleveland's Big Four title.

Wittenberg is a strong favorite but the Lutherans are preparing for a tough struggle on the theory that the Student Princes will shoot the works with nothing to lose and everything to gain.

The state's top collegiate eleven and undefeated in seven games—six in the conference—Wittenberg will be at full strength, but so will Heidelberg after two weeks in which its star halfbacks, Fenton Wolfe and Jim Turney, have been out with injuries.

In those two weeks Heidelberg lost two conference games, which knocked it out of the conference running. Previously it shared the lead with Wittenberg and Kent State, which will get the title if the Lutherans lose. Kent played only four conference games but won them all.

Two top-flight scorers, Johnny Kostyo of Wittenberg and Fenton Wolfe of Heidelberg, probably will stage an offensive show of their own. Kostyo leads the state's individual scorers with 63 points while Wolfe is in fourth place with 42 despite his idleness in the last two games.

Case and Reserve anticipate a ding-dong battle as each has won six games and lost one. Case has a slightly better offensive record, but Reserve takes defensive honors.

Case and Reserve will play in the morning as will John Carroll and Akron, who meet at Akron. Bowling Green travels to Detroit to tackle Wayne.

* * *

Three games between members of the old Buckeye conference round out the program. Ohio university and Miami go to Cincinnati to meet Xavier and Cincinnati, respectively, and Dayton entertains Ohio Wesleyan.

Team Seeks Games With Local Cagers

The Star theater basketball team of Upper Sandusky is seeking games this winter with professional teams from Mansfield and vicinity.

Senior 'A' League Meets at Settlement.

The Friendly House Senior white Class A basketball league will hold a meeting at the settlement at 7:30 p. m. Friday, Mike Wentz, boys' director, stated today. Any team wishing to enter the circuit for the 1940-41 season is requested to have a representative at the session. Managers of the clubs already entered, Daley Cafe, City News, Rex Billiards and Saurer's All-Stars, are to be present for the meeting. The circuit can handle two more quintets.

Christopher Leads Cagers To Third Win

Perrysville Forward Scores 19 Points In Victory.

PERRYSVILLE — Perrysville high's sensational forward, Tom Christopher, turned loose a basket barrage here last night as his team registered a one-sided 42 to 24 triumph over Polk in an Ashland county basketball league contest.

The Perrysville ace dumped in eight baskets and three free throws for 19 points as quintet registered its third straight cage victory of the season.

Perrysville forged in front in the opening period and never trailed as it added at least eight points in every stanza.

The Perrysville team was ahead, 12 to 8, in the opening chapter, 23 to 14, at the intermission and 34 to 17 as play was resumed in the final quarter.

Aiding Christopher in the scoring column were Otkinson, Myers and Herman. Otkinson, center, collected nine points, while Meyers and Herman added six points apiece. Rickets led the Polk club with six tallies.

* * *

Two preliminary games were presented last night. In one, the Perrysville Reserves dusted off the Polk seconds, 24 to 17, while Franks came through with a last-minute basket to give the Perrysville Junior high team a 19 to 18 win over the Polk Junior high players in an over-time tussle.

Shelby Ready For Practice

Whippets To Start Cage Workouts Monday.

SHELBY—First call for Shelby high school basketball candidates will not be made by Coach William Query until next Monday night, school officials announced today.

Coach Query will have four lettermen back from last year's team. They will be two forwards, Dave Clark and Glen Fought, and two guards, Bill Daugherty and Junior Keiser. Keiser who is working at the Hamburger Inn after school, may not go out for basketball this year.

Shelby will have its annual schedule of eight homegames and six contests on foreign courts.

Only three non-conference teams will be played. They are Mansfield, Willard and Crestline. Although the season gets underway with a home game here with Crestline Dec. 13, the league schedule will not open until the following Friday when Shelby plays Ashland high school whose hopes are high this year for a championship.

PLAN FUNERAL SERVICES FOR FORMER GRID STAR

CHICAGO (INS)—Funeral services were planned today in Chicago for Leslie G. Hart, famed All-America selection on the Walter Camp teams of the early 1900's and a member of Jim Thorpe's Canton, O. Bulldogs.

Hart was named on Camp's teams when he played quarterback for Washington and Jefferson University. Following his graduation he played with the Canton team. He was an ensign in the navy during the World war.

POSTPONE MATCHES

The Women's bowling league will postpone their circuit matches scheduled at the Meder Recreation alleys Thursday night, league officials announced today.

Salvation Army to Sponsor Two Basketball Leagues

THE SALVATION ARMY will sponsor two basketball leagues this season, it was announced today by Adjt. Paul Hoffman. One loop is for seniors between the ages of 15 and 21, while the Junior circuit will be made up of youngsters up to 15.

Three teams have joined each league and Adjt. Hoffman is trying to secure two more for each loop before the season opens the first week in December.

Teams in the Senior league are the Goons, Isaly Dairy second team, and the Salvation Army club. In the Junior circuit are the Hens, Lions and the Salvation Army quintet. There is no entry fee and the championship teams will be awarded a trophy.

The Salvation Army gymnasium and indoor games and recreation room will be open to boys and girls over the holiday vacation. Any team wishing to enter the league is requested to contact Adjt. Hoffman at the Salvation Army.

Oklahoma Football Coach Defends Grid Officials

By HENRY McLEMORE.

OKLAHOMA CITY—(U.P.)—Maybe the man talks the way he does because this is the part of the country where you never hear a discouraging word but whatever the reason Tom Stidham likes to defend football officials.

Stidham's word is not without weight, either. In the first place he is bigger than any of the Oklahoma football players he coaches, and that is saying plenty, because you'll never miss the Buffaloes as long as you can visit nearby Norman and take a look at the Sooner squad.

In the second place, Stidham's vote of confidence in officials means something because he has been around football as a player and as a coach for nigh on to 20 years.

And, thirdly, Stidham is one of the best coaches in the country and knows a good official when he sees one.

"You know," Big Tom said, as he watched his team work out for Saturday's game with Temple, "you know, that mistake by Freisell in the Dartmouth-Cornell game, and the one Johnny Getchell made in a Notre Dame game with Carnegie a year or two ago, were given too much publicity. The public is liable to start thinking that the officials aren't competent and that would be a whacking mistake.

"They are an amazing group of men. Honest, sincere, hard-working and unbelievably efficient. I say unbelievably efficient because there isn't a game in the world that puts such a burden on its officials as does football. Sure I've seen them make mistakes. Who hasn't? But who doesn't make mistakes? I make them, you make them and so does everybody else. The wonder to me is that officials call games as accurately as they do."

Stidham has no patience with those critics who, in a projection room on Monday, put the referee and the other officials to a test with the motion pictures of the game.

"There never was an ordinary mortal with camera eyes," Stidham points out, "you don't tell me a human being is supposed to see all the things a camera does.

"I'm telling you that until someone invents a robot official—a creation of steel and gadgets who sees all, knows all, and can make split second decisions without chance of error, we'd better stick by the officials we have and be grateful for them."

BOWLING SCORES

Only one kegler was able to smack the maples over the 600-mark at the Meder Recreation alleys last night. He was Tony Lake of the Sales and Advertising team in the Ohio Brass league.

Tony, who started out with a 211, came through with a fine 645 after added games of 178 and 256. He led his team to two wins over the General Office club.

Columbus Prepares For Invasion of Michigan For Homecoming Tilt.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A mild form of hysteria which began with Ohio State's victory last week over Illinois will bubble into a state of frenzy by Saturday as this usually staid city prepares for the invasion of Michigan's Wolverines and All-American Tom Harmon.

There's no Big Ten title at stake—Minnesota almost has it in the bag—but even if Michigan or Ohio hadn't won a game all season, Mr. Feets Ball Phan would be just as excited. It's the old story of traditional rivalry, intensified to the nth degree.

The only reason it doesn't happen here every year is that Ohio State must play every other year at Ann Arbor, where the same spirit prevails.

To top it off, this year the occasion is homecoming and a sell-out crowd of at least 72,781 will pack into the big Ohio stadium.

Hotels have been sold out for weeks and those rooms ordinarily reserved for meetings have been divided up into sleeping quarters.

Students will be dismissed after today's classes for a Thanksgiving holiday, but all that means to the team is more time for practice.

Today's session will begin as usual at 4 p. m. But on Thursday gridders must show up at 9 a. m. and possibly again in the afternoon. Friday they will assemble at 2 p. m. for the final practice of the season.

Signs of homecoming are cropping up on the campus. Students yesterday elected a queen but the winner will not be announced until the homecoming dance Friday night. Fraternity and sorority houses are being decorated with "Beat Michigan" caricatures.

The uptown quarterbacks, who meet after every game, hold their last session tonight.

WHITTAKER FAVORITE TO REPEAT HIS 1939 TRIUMPH

CINCINNATI—(INS)—Jim Whittaker, former Ohio State university cross-county runner, was a top-heavy favorite to repeat his victory of two years ago in the annual Thanksgiving Day six-mile race, sponsored by the Cincinnati Elk's club.

The runners will start at Fort Thomas, Ky., military post gymnasium and finish at the club home in Cincinnati. Whittaker now lives at Kent.

Harmon, Evashevski Both Ill In Bed.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(U.P.)—Tom Harmon, All-America halfback, and Forest Evashevski, Harmon's blocker, were out of the University of Michigan football lineup today as both were forced to bed with minor illness. Harmon had a cold and remained in his room while Evashevski had an upset stomach and was confined to university hospital. They were under the care of team physician, Dr. George Hammond.

Johnsville Turns Back Minutemen

Winners Grab Early Lead To Register Cage Win.

JOHNSVILLE—The Johnsville high cagers chalked up their initial triumph of the season here last night by turning back Lexington high, 17 to 14, in a non-league game.

Coach Johnny Rees' Lexington quintet, a member of the Richland County Basketball league, fell behind in the opening period and was unable to overcome the winners' advantage.

The Minutemen outscored the Johnsville outfit, 10 to 7, in the second half, but the Lexington sharpshooters couldn't locate the basket.

Led by Levering, Johnsville moved ahead, 6 to 2, in the first quarter, held a 10 to 4 lead at the intermission and opened the final frame sporting a 16 to 9 advantage.

The Minutemen's defensive tightened in the last period and the Johnsville team was limited to one point. Dillon, Lexington forward, set the individual pace with seven points.

* * *

The Lexington Reserves defeated the Johnsville reserves, 9 to 3, in the preliminary contest.

Cornell-Dartmouth Reversal Is One In a Million; Last Play Did It.

By BILL BONI

NEW YORK — (AP)—Anxious that revision of the Cornell-Dartmouth score should not establish a precedent which could become harmful to the sport, its players and its officials," Commissioner Asa Bushnell of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football association emphasized today the unique circumstances under which the "fifth down" mixup at Hanover occurred.

* * *

Bushnell pointed out that only when an official reverses his decision on the last play of game is it possible to accept such a reversal and permit it to change the score.

LET'S GET THIS STRAIGHT!

During the past year, a great deal has been printed and said in automobile circles about new kinds of "drives" for the 1941 model cars. As a result, many people have come to Oldsmobile with natural and pertinent questions:

"Are the 'drives' that other manufacturers offer similar to Oldsmobile's Hydra-Matic Drive?"

"If not, how does Hydra-Matic Drive differ from the others?"

In order to clear up any confusion or misunderstanding that may prevail in the public mind, Oldsmobile takes this opportunity to publish the statements of fact at the right.

ONLY ONE KIND OF DRIVE eliminates the clutch!....
ONLY ONE KIND OF DRIVE eliminates gear-shifting!..
ONLY ONE KIND OF DRIVE has a completely automatic transmission!.....
ONLY ONE KIND OF DRIVE gives full accelerating power without manual shifting...
HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE*!
built and backed by GENERAL MOTORS
Offered in OLDSMOBILE!

WHY OLDS' HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE* IS SO DIFFERENT AND IN A CLASS BY ITSELF!

No Clutch! No Shift!

Ordinary "new drives" are based on the principle of fluid coupling. Oldsmobile's exclusive Hydra-Matic Drive is a combination of fluid coupling and completely automatic transmission. It eliminates clutch and clutch pedal. It does away with the gear shifter. It provides a special fourth speed for cruising. It gives you a special pick-up gear for passing other cars and climbing steep hills. The "no clutch, no shift" Hydra-Matic Drive is optional at extra cost on all Olds models for 1941. Try it... there's nothing else like it in the world.

* Optional at extra cost on all models

PRICES BEGIN AT $852* FOR SPECIAL SIX BUSINESS COUPE

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Nothing official yet, ladies and gentlemen, but here is the Bowl line-up to date—Stanford vs. Texas Aggies at Pasadena: Boston College vs. Tennessee at New Orleans. (Now you just wait and see.) . . . One of the terms of Jimmy Wilson's contract with the Cubs is that he will coach at third base. . . From what we hear, the All-America pickers are having their troubles deciding between Hapes and Hovious of Mississippi U. . . . Tommy Harmon of Michigan is a cinch to get the Heisman Memorial trophy for the year's outstanding gridder.

THE ALL-AMERICA

The Augustana College (S. D.) nominates for its All-America: Kant of Fordham, Ize of Brown, Heel of Oxford, Bowl of Rice, Swamps of Georgia, Bell of St. Mary's, Bunch of Tufts, Shake of Depauw, Opportunity of Knox, Oodles of Duke and Tuba of Colgate. . . . You win, boys.

GIDDY GOSSIP

No less an authority than Buck Weaver, veteran turf writer of the Louisville Times, tells us it's Whirlaway in the Kentucky Derby, rain or shine. . . . Did you know that Frank McCormick, voted the most valuable player in the National League, cost the Reds only 100 smackers? (Get Larry MacPhail to tell you the story) . . . Katharine Hepburn, who is thrilling the locals in "The Philadelphia Story," appears daily on the tennis courts to crowded galleries . . . Now, who do you suppose that master magician, Mike Jacobs, will dog up to face Joe Louis in Detroit? It wouldn't be good old Gus Dorazio, would it? . .

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Bob French, Toledo Blade: "While the guessing is good, we would like to hazard the prediction that the next eastern college to deemphasize football will be Cornell. . . . The Big Red loses heavily by graduation this year and the tip is out that no undue efforts will be made to replace this year's stars."

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.

Nashville Tennesseean: Cornell leaned over backwards in its decision in refusing to accept a victory it apparently had won. It es tablished a precedent that is certain to cause much bickering in the future and may even result in the breaking up of traditional football feuds. . . . St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Alva Bradley's crack that Roger Peckinpaugh will have an absolutely free hand probably will be high among the belly laughs of the year. . . . Atlanta Journal. Miss Marble's decision to turn pro certainly will add to the scenic effects of a forthcoming tour with Don Budge and Bill Tilden.

HALL OF FAME

This corner nominates: Paul Brown, coach of the Massillon (Ohio) Highs. . . . They have won 32 in a row, knocking off high schools and colleges alike. . . . A letter addressed "Paul Brown, Ohio" would reach him.

BOB FELLER HONORED

series of inter-related and interdependent plays, it is manifestly impossible to alter any one of these plays without affecting and perhaps altering every one of them which follows. . . . Thus the Dartmouth-Cornell game provided the one case in a million in which change could be made without establishing a dangerous precedent, for in it the error which proved decisive came on a scoring play which also was the very last play of the final period."

Bushnell praised football officials and the high standards of their work, then added that they "do, however, make occasional mistakes, and they are bound to continue to do so in the future.

"If, when such errors occur as inevitably they must, there are demands that decisions and results be set aside, as was done in the 1940 Dartmouth-Cornell game, then a unique example will be so misused as to become a precedent harmful to the sport, its players and its officials.

* * *

"If, on the other hand, sight is not lost of the extraordinary circumstances surrounding that particular game and its transformation from victory for one side into victory for the other, then there will be no misinterpretation of standards for the conduct and administration of football competition, and the effects of the unparalleled Cornell-Dartmouth action will be as unqualifiedly beneficial to football as it is to the cause of sportsmanship."

Jewel Ens Succeeds Wilson As Cincinnati Reds Coach

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Jewel Ens who Manager Bill McKechnie said was "the one fellow I want" to succeed Jimmy Wilson as coach of the world champion Reds, had the job today.

When the Chicago Cubs decided on Wilson for their next year's manager, McKechnie told Manager Warren C. Giles that he'd like to have Ens, if you can get him."

The Indianapolis club of the American asosciation, where Ens became manager June 29, released him from a 1941 contract to permit him to fill the Red staff vacancy.

Ens scouted for the Reds this season He managed the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1930-31.

The fact that Ens was born on Aug. 24, 1889, should make that a big anniversary day in the Reds' camp next summer—it's also the birthday of Hank Gowdy, other Redleg coach.

Wade (Red) Killiefer, who managed Indianapolis from 1933 to 1937, is slated to replace Ens as the American association, team manager for the 1941 season, Leo T. Miller, Indians' president, announced.

* * *

Killiefer left the Indians for a three-year contract to pilot the Hollywood Stars in the Pacific Coast league, but dropped out of baseball last season when the team changed ownership after he had served two years.

Barons Return Home Tonight

Play New Haven Eagles First Time This Season.

(By Associated Press)

Cleveland's Barons, leading the western division of the American Hockey league, are at home to the New Haven Eagles tonight in the first meeting of the clubs this season.

Eddie Shore's Springfield Indians, eastern division leaders who haven't ventured further from home than Philadelphia, begin their first western tour at Pittsburgh. Tomorrow they go to Indianapolis and Saturday they visit Cleveland.

Hershey plays tonight at Philadelphia.

New Haven is second in the eastern group by only one point over the Providence Reds and two over the Philadelphia Ramblers and the Eagles are only two points behind Springfield.

The records give very little help in figuring out the winners. The Indians beat Pittsburgh 6-3 at Springfield, but the Hornets have come back to win their last two home games.

Army-Navy Game Forecast Tomorrow

WEST POINT N. Y.—(AP)—If tradition has anything to do with it, the outcome of the Army-Navy football game—to be played at Philadelphia Nov. 30—will be determined here early tomorrow morning

* * *

According to tradition, if the "Goats" beat the "Engineers" of the United States Military academy in their annual Thanksgiving morning tussle, the Army varsity will beat the Navy.

* * *

The "Goats" are a team of men who stand in the last 35, academically, in the second class (junior class). The "Engineers" are the bright boys of the class. Varsity players are ineligible for the contest, but other than that no holds are barred.

NAME HOLLYWOOD PILOT TO SUCCEED JEWEL ENS

INDIANAPOLIS, Inf. —(U.P.)— Wade (Red) Killefer, until recently manager of the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast league, today succeeded Jewel Ens as manager of the Indianapolis Indians of the American association.

JUDGE PUFFLE By Gene Ahern

DELIA, THE MAID, WAS TELLING US SHE HEARD MISS MEEKER SAY THAT SHE LIKES YOU BECAUSE YOU HAVE SUCH ROMANTIC, SAD EYES!— LET'S SEE THEM!— HM-M-I'VE SEEN THAT DROOPY GAZE IN A STUFFED MOOSE BUT I CAN'T SPOT ANY ROMANTIC GLEAM IN 'EM!
SHE SAID THEY HAVE THAT POETIC, TIRED LOOK! — THOSE HEAVY LIDS CAME FROM YEARS OF POKER-PLAYING EH, ROBIN?
NOW LISTEN, YOU RING-TAILS.— I CAN TAKE AS MUCH RIBBING AS AN UMBRELLA, BUT IF EITHER OF YOU GO AROUND SPREADING THAT ROMANTIC-SAD EYE STUFF, I'LL RUN YOU UNTIL YOUR TONGUE HANGS LIKE A MUFFLER!

LEADERS STEP TO REAR TODAY IN MART TRADES

Prominent In List Were Steels, Motors; Rails, Utilities Hold Losses Down.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks stepped a pace or so to the rear in today's market.

Prominent on the early retreat were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, General Electric, Pennsylvania and International Paper common and preferred.

Rails and utilities generally held losses to small amounts.

Commodities pointed upward but bonds inclined to emulate stocks.

A little more bearishness, brokers said, apparently was inspired by the foreign news.

Boardrooms saw another hopeful sign on the industrial horizon in the summary of the Edison Electric Institute disclosing electric power output for the country rebounded to a new peak in the week ended Nov. 16, after a recession in the preceding week.

Rails came in for further study in view of unexpected dividends declared by some roads and forecasts to an improved outlook for traffic and the earnings as the defense program picks up momentum.

Anent the steels, observers in this industry voiced the opinion average mill operations would hold at around 95 per cent of capacity during the first quarter of next year, setting a new peacetime record.

UNION PEACE HOPES SPIKED

Lewis Defeats Hillman With Vote To Continue Simple Parley Committee.

of true trade union American objectives."

Representatives of several of the largest CIO unions are reported to have informed Murray after Lewis had won his victory on labor peace that they would support him for the CIO leadership on his own terms.

The arguments of the Hillman group touched off the biggest display of oratorical fireworks in the convention.

Veteran leaders of the miners unions, Thomas Kennedy of Pennsylvania, Van A. Bittner of West Virginia, and John Owens of Ohio, jumped into the battle on the Lewis side.

Lewis rising to make "a few remarks" said peace with the AFL was fine as "an academic proposition" but that it was a waste of time to continue exploring peace possibilities.

In the course of his speech he suggested that any CIO organization that could not go along with the program could leave and go back to the AFL.

"And now above all the clamor," he added, "comes the piercing wail and laments of the Amalgamated Clothing workers."

Associates of the amalgamated delegates reported the Hillman group was angry over Lewis's speech, but there was no likelihood they would bolt the convention.

AFL Gives Up Settlement Hope

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— AFL Vice President Matthew Woll, casting a gloomy glance at the dove of peace launched only yesterday from the White House, said today he saw no hope for a settlement with the Congress of Industrial Organizations.

The short, neatly-dressed Woll, considered one of the scholars of the American Federation of Labor in convention here, made the assertion after examining a similar statement by CIO President John L. Lewis, directed at AFL.

At the same time, the AFL resolutions committee considered a measure to increase its revenue for possible use in a labor war.

AFL President William Green called Lewis a "real dictator" after Lewis had told his cheering CIO convention in Atlantic City "I've done a lot of exploring in Bill's mind and I give you my word—there is nothing there."

Lewis blasted the AFL after President Roosevelt in a message to Green—there was no indication here that a similar message had been sent to Lewis—called upon labor's leaders "with the interest of the nation at heart" to find a way to peace.

"That is the end of any hope for peace," said Woll in referring to Lewis' statement that 'it would be wrong' to make it appear a settlement was near. "But I never had much hope for it anyhow.

"There may be only one chance, a remote one that I doubt will happen, and that is if Sidney Hillman takes his amalgamated clothing workers out of the CIO. The textile and Rubber workers might follow."

Hillman's union, for proposing an AFL-CIO conference on unity, was scolded by Lewis with the phrase "and now come the piercing wails and laments of the Amalgamated, and they say 'Peace ain't it wonderful.'"

To which Woll said: "Such insults. I don't see how Hillman can take them. I guess he will though."

Green merely repeated what he has been saying since the convention started: Any CIO unions wishing to return to the AFL fold will be welcomed home.

60 Ohioans Begin Parade of Draftees to Fort Thomas

DOCTORS TURN DOWN NINE IN FINAL EXAMS

Crawford County Contingent Gets First Taste of Army Chow: Says It's O. K.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Sixty young Ohioans rose long before dawn today to meet an uncle who will look after them for the next 12 months.

The old boy — Uncle Sam — is mighty proud of these 21-to-35-year old "nephews." They're the cream of the state physically, and within most of them burns a spark of something which caused them to offer him a year of their hopeful young lives.

They are among the first peacetime selectees in the history of the republic and the vanguard of a line of conscripted men which may trail down through all the future years of the nation But for certain they knew that at least 50,000 Ohioans would follow them to camp under the national selective service act.

Out of army beds at Ft. Hayes which they "made" themselves, these draftees tumbled before 5 a. m. today. A brief cleanup period, a hearty breakfast, and the boys were headed for the railroad tation to entrain for Ft. Thomas, Ky., where they were to be inducted into the U. S. army.

Today 102 other Ohioans will follow this "sample" group through induction procedures at Ft. Hayes and another 100 will be inducted at Ft. Thomas. Some of those who appear at the army posts for induction today won't be accepted—yesterday army dentists and doctors turned down nine of the 69 who presented themselves at Ft. Hayes.

Dental insufficiencies eliminated five of the nine — four because they didn't have six pair of opposing teeth and another because his teeth did not meet in the front of his mouth. Two were rejected because of inadequate vision, another because of a bad case of flat feet, and another because the doctors thought his heart might not stand the gaff of army life

The selectee rejected because of his heart was Olen Drown, 19-year-old volunteer from Sycamore, Crawford county Drown didn't learn of his rejection until after "chow" last night. He told this correspondent that he was much impressed with army food

In this he agreed with the other selectees. Andrew King, who gave up a job as shipping clerk in Massillon to volunteer, said he had "plenty" of good food; so did Burns Eggleston, Bucyrus volunteer, and James Randolph Fetzer, New Washington, O., draftee and Robert Kutscher, Massillon volunteer

Charles McLaughlin, one of the two Crawford county contingent leaders who received considerable publicity as the county's "No. 1 volunteer," said that "everybody's been considerate and accommodating." He was a chauffeur and caretaker before signing up for a year's military training.

The young men didn't have much to say but it was all favorable

Ed Beale the other Crawford county contingent leader and a volunteer, expressed the opinion that 'the draft is a good thing"

On Mansfield family is so thankful for the blessing of the American Way of Living that it is opening its home to others less fortunate than its own members. "We want some nice persons who are alone in the city and who can't afford to have a big dinner," a member of the family said. "We've always asked friends to share our Thanksgiving dinner but this year we want someone who has no friends here." Which is a pretty nice way of giving thanks.

The West Fourth street paving has been blamed for just about everything but being the cause of the war, and yesterday it was given as a reason why a merchant on the street wouldn't give a membership to the Red Cross, not even a dollar membership. "I can't be a member of the Red Cross this year," he told a solicitor, "because the street was closed so long for paving that I lost money." But even more ridiculous was the refusal of a woman who wouldn't join this year because Roosevelt was elected president for a third term. She vowed, she said, after the election that she wouldn't give a penny to anything and had adopted a "Let Roosevelt do it" attitude on everything.

Electricians who have been re-wiring the Elks club during the past few weeks would like to get their hands on the crew who wired the place originally. According to the men now working on the job, the wiring is the "maddest tangle they have ever seen." No sooner do they start tracing one wire, when they run into a maze of others that apparently lead nowhere. In order to complete the job the floors may have to come out, the electricians said.

MUSIC PROGRAM

John Simpson Assembly Also Includes Miller Talk.

A musical program and a talk by Supt. W. L. Miller were features of the annual Thanksgiving assembly at John Simpson Junior high school at noon today.

The program was opened by two selections by the John Simpson orchestra, under the direction of S. K. Jorgensen. A vocal duet by Charles Draves and Jo Ann Brandt, an accordion solo by Eileen Schuler, and a flute solo by Dorothy Ohler followed.

Supt. Miller spoke on "Thanksgiving" at the close of the musical program. Carl Schaefer, president of the ninth grade class, presided.

in her shrunken borders ready to move on south, has no choice at all. Bulgaria has very little. Bulgaria may have to pay for her alliance very shortly by using her own army to attack Greece and help out the Italians.

Turkey is the real nut to crack; Turkey with her British alliance, her possession of the land bridge to the Near East, her clutch on the Dardanelles. But the Nazis are counting on the passive influence of Russia and the overwhelming weight of the "new order" to the north to bring Turkey smartly into parade formation.

Yugoslavia, for the moment, is left for Italy to handle.

In western Europe, Spain may be expected to join the alliance when Hitler gives the signal, and thereupon to pay part of the price of a German assault on Gibraltar.

The rumors that King Leopold of the Belgians has been seeing Hitler may indicate that Belgium will become the Axis model for the occupied nations. This is all the more likely now that "collaboration" with France has gone sour.

As for the other original alliance partners, Italy and Japan, what do they get?

Mussolini, it would seem, gets rescued from Greece, and little else.

Japan wins the psychological effect of the alliance on the United States—for what it is worth.

PATROL OFFICER GIVES ADDRESS

Highway Patrolman D. H. Cole of the Mansfield sub-station talked to more than 60 Richland county school bus drivers on "School Bus Safety" last night at Madison high school.

At the close of the talk, Patrolman Cole awarded emblems to drivers with perfect safety records so far this year. The awards are given annually by the Ohio Traffic Safety council.

A round table discussion on "Safety" completed the program. A meeting of the Morrow county school bus drivers will be held sometime in the near future, Patrolman Cole said.

RED CROSS REPORTS 'BIGGEST 'DAY SINCE ROLL CALL OPENED

Biggest day in the history of Richland County Red Cross Roll Call was yesterday when more than $2,000 was reported to the office, according to Gertrude B. English, executive secretary.

Mrs. English, who has been with Red Cross for 20 years, said that in previous years there never had been more than a thousand dollars reported in any one day of the Roll Call, but yesterday's membership reports brought in $2,050.

This was in the Mansfield office alone. The Shelby branch, which has always gone well over the top of its quota, reports that memberships are coming in and with larger donations to the chapter than ever before. None of the Shelby memberships, however, which are well over $1,500, have been included in the chapter reports to date.

L. W. Birch, Roll Call chairman, said today there was "no doubt that the Roll Call will go well over the minimum goal of 10,500." The annual membership drive runs through Nov. 30, and the Mansfield office has more than $5,000 reported in, although the half way mark in memberships has not been reached.

The 100 per cent concerns reported in yesterday were: Pepsi Cola company, the Charles Hoffman company, North American Knitting company, Independent Beauty and Barber Supply company, Weaver's Home Supply Service, Mansfield-Leland Hotel Dining room, The Farmers Savings and Trust company, Mansfield Tent and Awning company, Newman school staff, Kallmerten and Baer Coal company, County Sheriff's office, County Clerk's office, Probate court office.

County Recorder's office, County treasurer's office, county agricultural extension agent's office, Mansfield Novelty company, Harng's meat market, Mutual Benefit Life Insurance company, Galbraith & O'Brien law office, Evergreens cafeteria, Quality meat market, County Surveyor's office, Lantz Brothers, Mansfield Brass Foundry, Inc., Independent Towel Supply company.

Stutzman's Bakery, Equitable Life Assurance Society, National Electric company, O. O. Brenner's Jewelry store, Mansfield Typewriter and Office Supply company, Mansfield Termite company.

DIES IN MISHAP

Mrs. A. E. Wisman, 74, Bucyrus, Killed In Kentucky.

BUCYRUS—Alfred E. Wisman is expected to return this afternoon with the body of his wife, Catherine Wisman, 74, who was instantly killed in an automobile accident yesterday afternoon near Waynesburg, Ky.

The couple left their home at 927 Rogers street, early Tuesday morning enroute to Lakeworth, Fla., where they have spent the winters for the past 18 years. No details were available as to the cause of the accident, but it was believed Mr. Wisman escaped serious injury.

Mrs. Wisman was born in Holmes township, June 13, 1866, and in December 1888, married Albert Wisman. They celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1938.

Surviving besides her husband are a brother, George W. Brown of Lemert; and three sisters, Mrs. Manda Lust, Mrs. Adam Wisman and Mrs. James Kester, all of this city. The body will be brought to the Henderson-Lutz funeral home, but no arrangements for funeral services have been made.

SLIGHT RAISE IN RATE MADE FOR AAA PLAN

Bolster Prices By Stopping Excessive Marketing In Next Few Weeks.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Loans to midwestern farmers on 1940-grown corn will be made at a base rate of 61 cents a bushel—four cents higher than the rate under a similar program last year—the agriculture department announced yesterday.

The rate will apply in the so-called "commercial" corn area—599 major corn producing counties in Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Outside this area the rate will be 46 cents for yellow or white corn and 44 cents for corn graded as "mixed." The law directs that the rate outside the commercial area be 75 per cent of that in the commercial area. Mixed corn rate in the commercial area will be 59 cents.

The loan program, the department said, was designed to prevent marketing of excessive supplies of grain during the next several weeks and to bolster prices received by producers.

Grain must be stored under seal in cribs and bins or in commercial elevators or warehouses. It cannot be sold or used until the loan is repaid or the grower surrenders the title as payment. Only farmers who planted within 1940 corn planting allotments apportioned under the AAA control program will be eligible for loans.

This year the period during which loans are available has been extended from four to ten months and the term of the loan from one to three years. Loans will bear three per cent interest.

To be eligible for a loan, corn must grade No. 3 or higher, except for moisture content and test weight. Maximum moisture content acceptable in loan corn will vary with the time the loan is obtained, as follows:

Ear corn, between Dec. 1, 1940, and Feb. 28, 1941, 20.5 per cent; ear corn, between March 1 and April 30, 1941, 17.5 per cent; ear corn, between May 1 and Sept. 30, 1940, 15.5 per cent; and shelled corn, between July 1 and Sept. 30, 1941, 13.5 per cent.

ATTEND PARLEY

100 From County To Go To Youth Conference.

Approximately 100 young people representing all church denominations in Richland county, will leave for Columbus Friday to attend the annual state Interdenominational Christian Youth conference to be held there over the Thanksgiving week-end.

Most of the group will leave on chartered buses from the bus depot Friday at 9 a. m.

Nearly 2,000 young people from throughout the state are expected to attend the three-day session. Nationally known speakers will include Benjamin Mays, dean of Howard University; Edwin Boteat, pastor of the First Baptist church, Cleveland; and Ivan Gould, director of young peoples work, International Council of Religious Education.

The conference theme will be "United for Christian Action." Selwyn Copeland is conference chairman for all Richland county churches.

2 MANSFIELDERS OFF FOR CAMP

Leave for Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

Two Mansfield youths left today for Great Lakes, Ill., to begin training in the United States Navy, a recruiting officer at the postoffice announced today.

The Mansfielders are Thomas Kulka, 538 Daisy avenue, and Anthony Angle, 320 Lily street. The youths will spend six weeks at the Great Lakes training station before being assigned to a regular naval unit, the officer said.

Recruiting offices at the postoffice were closed this afternoon and will not be reopened until Monday, when the permanent naval recruiting station will be installed here.

CLUB OPERETTA

The one-act operetta "Rose of Castile" will be presented tonight at 8:00 p. m. at the Leiderkrantz club. Abandoning their usual custom of presenting their plays in their native tongue, the German-American of the club wil present the operetta tonight in English. The cast includes Frank Grier, Sophia Gregory, Eva Procker and Joseph Schmidt. A dance will follow the play.

MANSFIELDER WINS

SHELBY—Miss Frances Walker of Mansfield won high score prize for contract bridge when Miss Mary Purdy entertained members of her club this week at her home here.

The Voice of BROADWAY

BROADWAY BULLETIN BOARD.

The scheduled marriage of Harry Hopkins and Betsy Cushing Roosevelt will be indefinitely "deferred," intimates say, for a poignant reason—and not because they don't adore each other. . . . Luise Rainer's dream prince is Camillo Aldao, a wealthy Buenos Aires playboy.

Charlie Chaplin, who was reported to have made a trip to the Coast and back a week or so ago, actually never left New York! A fake "arrival" was staged by his studio at one of the airports, but all the time he was supposed to be in Hollywood Chaplin was in Tim Durant's River House apartment under the care of physicians!

Norma Shearer has a new interest in Wall Street. . . . The Rogers Pryors (Ann Sothern) are worrying their friends, who anticipate another Loy-Hornblowup.

Constance Bennett's aisle-waltz with Gilbert Roland is imminent, despite her hedging. . . . Washington insiders report that Ambassador Joe Kennedy's resignation was turned down last week by the White House.

Buddy De Sylva, the triple-threat producer, who finally kissed and made up with his eloping stepson, Dave Shelley, presented Dave and bride Libby Bennett with a $2,500 check for the impending arrival.

Songwriter Jimmy Van Heusen and glamor girl Dana Dale are a Hollywood gurgle.

Joan Castle, the model, and William Saroyan, the unpredictable, send each other 20 to 30 telegrams a day. . . . Ann Graham, the "Panama Hattie" beauty, has switched from Al Moore, the baseball player, to Willie Moore, the restaurateur.

Claire Trevor and Clark Andrews, her radio-producer husband, ask me to say they are separated by nothing more serious than his business requirements.

Garson Kanin is carrying a quiet torch for Katharine Hepburn, now that he's convinced the scheduled marriage—for which a date had been set—won't come off. Inside is that the romance started as an RKO publicity stunt, but Garson fell for it—and for her!

Joshua Logan, youthful director of "Charley's Aunt," is in Bellevue with a nervous breakdown. . . . One of the first couples of the theater has decided to continue living in the same house but "go separate ways."

SPAIN, RUMANIA AND BULGARIA FEEL PRESSURE

Hungary Joins Axis; Turks Warned Danger of War Looms Near.

that other powers shortly would join the alliance.

As Axis diplomats signed Hungary into a more or less puppet partnership, Britons read in the morning newspapers of still another devastating smash by German night raiders against the industrial Midlands—a nine-hour assault on the "queen" city of Birmingham and 13 other cities and towns.

Hitler's high command said 500 Nazi planes stormed the Midland belt with more than 1,000,000 pounds of bombs, setting "far-visible conflagrations and explosions even more extensive than during the raid on Coventry."

England's second largest city, Birmingham has 1,000,000 inhabitants.

The Nazi raiders, roaring across the channel from bases in Holland, Belgium and France, dive-bombed Birmingham at a rate of more than one-a-minute. British feared the toll of killed and maimed was high as the German bombers, dropping first flares, then incendiaries to start fires and light the way for a hail of explosives, attacked hour after hour despite a thunderous anti-aircraft barrage.

This morning Birmingham presented a fire-blackened picture of ruin, while in nearby Coventry the bodies of 172 of 300 victims killed in last Thursday's town-smashing assault were buried in a common grave.

Anti-aircraft guns blasted at a lone Nazi raider circling over the city as the bodies were lowered into a 200-foot trench, and two RAF Spitfires finally chased the German away.

British bombers carried out a night attack on Berlin, the London air ministry reported, and the Germans acknowledged two raids on their capital but asserted that "each time, only one plane succeeded in flying over the city and dropping a number of incendiary and explosive bombs."

"Hospitals, clinics and several apartment houses were struck," the Nazis said. "The resulting roof fires were quickly extinguished."

Liverpool was attacked three times overnight, and widespread other targets were hit by the German raiders, but London was said to have had little damage and few casualties.

The Greek high command reported today determined bayonet charges and hand-to-hand fighting had gained the Greeks new ground in their counter thrust into Albania around the key town of Koritza.

Yugoslav frontier dispatches said both sides had lost heavily in the fierce fighting as the Italians held out doggedly in defense positions attacked repeatedly by the Greeks.

"Our offensive continued with success," a Greek communique said.

"Our army ejected the enemy at bayonet point from positions which they had fiercely defended."

Eleven Italian planes were shot down, the communique reported, with no Greek planes lost. An Italian communique declared the ratio was 8-to-1 in favor of Italy.

Premier Mussolini's high command, still struggling to carry out Il Duce's threat that he would "break Greece's back," said strong Greek attacks on Italian troops southeast of Koritza, in Albania, and on both sides of the Kalibaki highway, in northwest Greece, were "repelled with many serious losses" for the Greeks.

Dispatches from Cairo said five waves of Italian warplanes bombed the British naval base at Alexandria, Egypt, on Monday night, killing 52 persons, wounding 79, and destroying 17 houses.

Other Fascist warplanes struck at the Suez canal the same night, bombing a seaplane base and ships in the harbor of Great Bitter lake, which lies in the canal itself.

Italian Retreat Called Rout

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia—(U.P.)—Italian troops today were in full retreat on two fronts of the Albanian-Greek frontier, border dispatches reported, and Greek forces were said to be pursuing the retreating enemy.

Ohrid dispatches said that along the Ionian sea coast the Italian withdrawal had become a rout and that Greek troops which had pursued the retreating enemy across the Kalamas river were chasing the Italians toward Albanian villages near Konispolis.

Near Koritza, at the other end of the line, Greek troops were said to be only three miles from the shell-wrecked Italian base. The Greeks were said to have brought all Italian lines of retreat under artillery fire.

Rumania Set To Sign Friday

BUDAPEST —(U.P.)— Hungarian sources said today that Rumania's adherance to the Axis would be signed Friday when Rumanian Premier Gen. Ion Antonescu visits Berlin.

TWO PHYSICIANS AT CONFERENCE

Attend Tenth Annual Meeting of Pediatrics Academy.

$1 a month salary. He is to be placed under $1,000 bond, Councilman Arthur L. Croak, chairman of council's traffic committee, explaining that the salary was merely a legal technicality to make the collector responsible to the city.

Service on the meters and the collector's salary is to be paid by the Michaels company, during the nine-month trial period. Mayor William J. Locke said he would announce the appointment later today. It is expected that L. L. Kochenderfer, unsuccessful Republican candidate for county recorder, will be named to the job.

The collection routine involves the removal of a sealed container from each meter and the substitution of another. The auditing routine involves the breaking of the seal and counting the money and resealing the container. Bank employes will record the receipts from each machine.

The city will pay $15 a month for the auditing service from anticipated meter revenues. All receipts must be used for traffic control and enforcement.

DELEGATES

Six Youths Will Represent Club at Convention.

Delegates to the State Hi-Y convention to be held in Dayton Nov. 29-Dec. 1 were chosen by John Sherman and R. B. Chapman Hi-Y clubs last night at the Y. M. C. A.

Chosen to represent the Chapman Hi-Y were William Zimmerman, Robert Saltzgaber, and Arden Miller. Robert Betz, Howard Hershey and Joseph Keifer will represent the John Sherman club.

In addition to choosing delegates, the Chapman Hi-Y discussed "You and Your Job," with Richard Wendland, president, leading the discussion.

PICKS TOPIC

Rabbi Will Discuss Reasons For Persecution of Jews.

"Why Are Jews Persecuted?" will be the topic discussed by Rabbi Myron W. Jacobs at the regular service at Temple Emanuel Friday at 8 p. m.

The historic, ostensible, and real reasons for persecutions will be analyzed by Rabbi Jacobs. The public is invited to attend the meeting.

First Parking Meter Installed

What Mansfield has been anticipating for weeks became a reality yesterday afternoon when representatives of the Michaels Art Bronze company, Covington, Ky., started placing 414 parking meters on downtown streets. Shown here are left to right, C. C. Krebs, salesman for the company, Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton and Elmer Luebbert, installation supervisor, as the first coin collector was placed on the southwest corner of South Walnut and West Second streets. In the background is James Swisher, Bellville contractor, who made the post installation for the concern.

BOARDS READY TO PICK SIX

Two Thirds of County's Draft Quota Being Selected Today; Questionnaires Out.

Six of the nine men Richland county will send to army camps next Tuesday were to be selected today, but there was some doubt as to whether the other three will be ready to leave here by Tuesday.

At least six and possibly eight of the county's quota of nine men will be volunteers. Draft board No. 3 at the courthouse, however, has received only two volunteers and will have to draft one man even if both volunteers can pass their physical examinations.

Since men called for service are entitled to five days notice before leaving for camp, members of the No. 3 board were doubtful about getting their three ready in time. None of the board's registrants had been given a physical examination today.

Almost certain to be called first by board No. 2 in Mansfield were Fred L. Martin, 573 Wayne street; Glenn L. Longshore, 22½ Hedges street, and James G. Kondos, 154 Seventh avenue. All are volunteers.

Howard C. Ripper, 35 Huffman avenue, one of the three in line for the first call in draft district No. 1, just got under the wire. He was 21 years old on Oct. 16, registration day. He volunteered after registering.

Board No. 1 had mailed questionnaires to 150 registrants at noon today. By tonight, board No. 2 will have mailed blanks to 223 men. Board No. 3 will meet tonight to classify the men who have returned their questionnaires.

The Richland county contingent will report at Ft. Hayes, Columbus, at noon next Tuesday for a final examination.

SPY PICTURE

Dies Says Chicago Inquiry Shows Organization.

CHICAGO—(INS)—In the wake of a two-day secret hearing conducted here by Rep. Martin Dies, on un-American activities, speculation centered on the identity of a prominent society woman named only as "Mrs. Blank," described by Dies as a Nazi spy.

"Mrs. Blank," said Dies, "took an important part in harboring and entertaining foreign agents."

Dies said: "The Chicago inquiry has given the committee a complete picture of the whole situation. It all stems from Chicago, and the activity centered in this city has been three-fold.

"First—To raise funds to help finance the Axis war machine.

"Second—To penetrate American public opinion, to try to sabotage America's defense program through a campaign of propaganda.

"Third—To place agents in key jobs in industries vital to National defense."

WATERWORKS EMPLOYES GIVEN BELATED PAY CHECKS TODAY

Waterworks department employes who went payless last week due to the lack of funds in departmental payroll coffers received their checks today.

City council in a special session last night set up $3,500 to meet the emergency and provide additional funds for payroll purposes in the deartment for the balance of the year. The money will be taken from the waterworks surplus.

In addition, several other appropriations and transfers were made to prevent financial distress in other departments before the year draws to a close.

These included a $1,700 appropriation from the waterworks department surplus to pay trenching costs for laying new mains on various streets, a $500 apropriation for feeding jail prisoners for the balance of the year, and $500 for the purchase of materials in the street department.

Another included $800 for the parks department, $435 of which is earmarked to pay for new heating apparatus at Liberty park shelter house, $175 for tennis court constructed at Maple lake and $191 for payrolls.

The purchase of 1,000 additional bicycle license was provided for by a $95 appropriation and $500 was set up for the purchase of a master meter to be installed at Maxwell pumping station.

The supplement street department payroll fund, council authorized an $850 transfer from funds previously set up for the surfacing of the Bowman street bridge, and $200 was earmarked for laying a new sewer on Dorian street.

HEADS NAMED

F. & A. M. Lodge Selects Officials For Year.

SHELBY—Officers for the new year were chosen when Lodge No. 350, F. & A. M., met Tuesday night at Masonic temple for an annual reorganization session. The temple board was named at the close of the meeting.

The business session was preceded by a share-the-cost supper served by a committee composed of Ben Sutter, W. R. Parnell, Paul Lego, Clyde Smith and Walter Strauch.

Elected as officers of the lodge were George O. Shilling, worshipful master; Robert W. Sutter, senior warden; Haskell B. Hawkins, junior warden; John Chew, treasurer; Chris D. Seton, secretary; Davis R. Armentrout, senior deacon; Elmer L. Prewett, junior deacon, and David H. Walter, tyler.

The Temple board includes I. L. Sipe, J. J. Crum, John Chew, B. V. Hollenbaugh, F. C. Long, A. C. Elliott, Ben Sutter, J. J. Moore and C. D. Seton.

SECOND VICTIM

Ralph Shondell Dies of Injury Received In Ontario Crash.

Ralph Shondell, Turtle Creek, Pa., who was injured in an auto-truck collision at Ontario, Sunday, died at 11:30 a. m. today in General hospital.

His body was to be removed to the Geiger funeral home and probably later taken to Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Sarah Shondell, his wife, was instantly killed in the same accident. Her body was also taken to Pittsburgh earlier in the week. Their 12-year-old daughter, Hope, who sustained a fractured skull in the crash, is still in General hospital.

SETS UP BAN

Council Orders New Parking Restrictions on 2 Streets.

Continuing its program of traffic control by the elimination of hazards, city council last night set up parking restrictions on two more streets.

The legislators approved a measure placing a parking ban on the east side of Weldon avenue from Park avenue west to West Second street and placed a two-hour limit on the west side of the street in the same block.

The ordinance also provides for a two-hour parking limit on the south side of East First street from South Main street to South Diamond street.

GRASS ON BALL

HOUSATONIC, Mass. —(INS)— A small rubber ball provided the rooting place for a blade of grass, fould by George Lowe, a town employe.

Lowe said he found the piece of grass growing from the ball. Investigation showed the root was inside the ball.

MANSFIELD TO CLOSE SHOP ON THANKSGIVING

Special Religious Services and Feasting In Homes Take Place During Holiday.

21. Sixteen others will celebrate on Nov. 28, which is the date marked in red on the 1940 calendars.

Inmates at the reformatory will have "chicken with the fixin's dinner. Superintendent Arthur L. Glattke said today that there would be 800 pounds of dressed chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, peas, pickles, assorted rolls, coffee, and apples for the holiday dinner, and that in the afternoon there would be a program of inmate entertainment. The reformatory population is 2,750 at present, and all work will be halted for the day, Glattke said.

The county infirmary, the Children's Home, and county jail will also have special holiday dinners.

As has been the custom for many years the Volunteers of America will serve a simple but substantial dinner to deserving ones on this Thanksgiving Day. It is expected that 40 will be fed. The Friendly House will distribute baskets to needy families.

These baskets of food are contributed from various individuals and several church groups.

The annual joint worship services in commemoration of the day-of-Thanks will be held at several churches, with persons from varied demonstrations meeting together for a common hour of "thanks."

One service will be held at the First United Brethren church at 10 a. m. Thursday with Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor of the First Christian church, giving the meditation theme. Congregations uniting for this worship include the United Brethren, First Christian, First Presbyterian, United Presbyterian and Congregational. Special musical numbers will also feature the service.

At the First Lutheran church members will gather for a service at 9 a. m. at which time Rev. Grover Swoyer, pastor, will speak on "A Time to Thank God." The offering will go for welfare work among the needy of the church. Musical selections will be given at that service.

Today at 7:30 p. m., there will be a union Thanksgiving service in the St. Paul Lutheran church, 88 West Third street, when members of the St. Paul congregation and the St. Luke's Lutheran church join in this annual gathering. Dr. Herbert S. Garnes, pastor of the St. Luke's church, will speak on the subject, "Giving Thanks to God." Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, host pastor, will conduct the vesper service.

O. L. Seybold, organist, will play special organ numbers. The St. Paul choir, under the direction of Mrs. H. L. Gilbert, will sing "I Will Feed My Flock," by Simper, and "Thou Crownest the Year," by Maker.

Members of the congregations of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church, the Central Methodist and the Park Avenue Baptist will join for a Thanksgiving service today at 7:30 p. m. at the Central M. E. church. Rev. Albert Linder, pastor of the Baptist church, will conduct the meditation hour.

Members of the Salvation Army will hold their Thanksgiving service today at 7:45 p. m. with Adjutant Paul Hoffman speaking on "Progression." On Friday evening at 7:30 p. m. there will be a party for young people at the headquarters.

Instead of the annual Halloween dance at the Friendly House this year, the young people are celebrating with a Thanksgiving dance Friday evening at 8 p. m. This will be a hobo dance sponsored by the Girl Scout Troup, No. 4 of Friendly House.

At the Y. W. C. A. young people of junior high school age, will hold a dance Friday and each person is asked to bring an old toy which can be renovated by the Girl Reserves for distribution at Christmas time. The dance will begin at 8 p. m., with the following advisors in charge: Mrs. Harold Burns, Miss Genevieve Buzenski, Miss Norma Sheer, Mrs. Perry Cook, Miss Betty Tharp, Mrs. Kathleen Smith, Mrs. Nelson Brooks, Mrs. C. R. Hunsicker and Mrs. W. M. Lee.

At 8 a. m. Thursday, high mass will be held at St. Peter's Catholic church as a special Thanksgiving service with Msgr. R. C. Goebel conducting.

As has been the custom the Y. M. C. A. and the American Legion closed Thanksgiving. Lodges and clubs are quiet throughout the city with little or no activity planned by the various groups.

SUB-TOPIC LEADERS

SHELBY—Mrs. A. J. Greenslade, Mrs. Raymond Dewey, Miss Mary Lucile Bushey, Miss Marguerite Ovens and Miss Antonia Johnston are sub-topic leaders on the program of Anna R. Fish Delphian chapter meeting tonight at Central school.

NAZI HELD

Attractive Blond Convicted of Defiling U. S. Flag.

TOMS RIVER, N. J. —(U.P.)— Helga Schleuter, 20, an attractive blond, was in the custody of the sheriff today awaiting sentence for "publicly mutiliating, defiling and defacing the flag of the United States," a misdemeanor.

She was convicted of tearing a small flag from her motorcycle and throwing it to the ground during the state firemen's parade in Lakewood last June 29, shouting that she was a Nazi and dispised Jews. She explained that she had "too many beers."

Miss Schleuter came to the United States from Germany in 1927. She has not been naturalized.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1940.

Some folks don't care how many teeth a law has in it—as long as it bites somebody else.

It's queer how little Greece keeps right on winning perfectly impossible victories in spite of all the experts.

Much is being said about eliminating trade barriers between states and this will probably be easier than breaking down the walls of prejudice which states of the Solid South have built up around themselves.

Will War's Ravages Spare Rome?

WITH Italy in the war as an ally of Germany, and devastation being wrought in London and elsewhere in England by air attacks, there is cause to wonder just how long Great Britain's tolerance will withhold bombardment of Rome, which is obviously within striking distance of the Royal Air Force.

A few months ago the mere thought of damage to Rome would have been horrifying but the savagery of Nazi bombings of London and the more recent destruction of the quiet English cathedral town of Coventry gives an idea that in meeting the Hitler and Mussolini conception of war, scruples must be put aside and force met by superior force—in like manner.

Hitler has shown no respect for traditions which would have spared religious shrines of England from the ravages of war, nor has he been mindful of the safety of civilians in bombed areas. Mussolini's invasion of Greece has also been in disregard of the beauty and antiquity of that nation's sacred places.

The Nazi attack on Coventry, it is asserted from Berlin, was in retaliation for Britain's bombing of Munich during a recent Hitler speech, and new heights of retaliatory frightfulness may be expected as the British become more aggressive in their air raids over enemy territory.

Whatever it may have been that induced Italy's entrance into the war, and however disappointing the experience has been to date, Mussolini now announces arrogantly that "he will never turn back" from the Greek invasion and that the war can end only with the destruction of England.

So, while there may be hopes and prayers that Rome will be saved from the fate of London and Berlin, it must even now be recognized that it is Rome's good fortune that the decision has rested with Great Britain instead of with Hitler—else before now much of Italy's capital city might be in ruins.

Losing Faith In Hitler

HITLER has recently given an impression of being a very perplexed Fuehrer. He hasn't done much fighting now for weeks, except in the air over England. Possibly he has done some constructive ideological work in the Balkans, although even that seems doubtful in the late reports from American correspondents, who say the Balkan nations have lost faith in him.

Life for Adolf has become just one conference after another, with his own outfit, with Mussolini, with the Russians and Japanese and other friends or potential enemies. And this is a strange situation.

In the past, Hitler has struck boldly and rapidly, with one hammer blow after another, aiming to knock out his enemies before they could get started. As matters stand now, his potential victims are having a chance to get their breath and strengthen their defense.

The potential victims have also had a chance to talk and compare notes, and they wonder whether the Super-Napoleon isn't losing his grip and his nerve. British endurance, combined with British sea and air victories and heroic Greek resistance, powerfully influences European opinion. A feeling is growing that the dictators can be stopped.

An Example of Sound Farming

THE 1940 STAR FARMER of America is a 17-year-old lad from the cotton country of Arkansas. In addition to the title, Gerald Reyenga won a prize of $500 awarded by the weekly Kansas City Star.

For the benefit of city folks without rural sources of information, the Star Farmer is chosen from 230,000 Future Farmers of America, an organization of young farm people who plan to continue farming as a career when they grow up.

Gerald took agricultural courses at high school and did his share of the work on the 520-acre home farm where he was reared. When his father died a year ago Gerald managed the farm and had a profit to show. In high school he played basketball and baseball. His favorite sports are hunting and fishing. All of which suggests that he has time for many things besides study and farm work.

Gerald is not a one-crop farmer. He has raised corn that produced a high average yield. He is doing well with cotton and potatoes. He has horses, cows and pigs, too. And like Four-H Clubbers and other Future Farmers, he keeps books and knows the cost of production, what is income-producing and what is the source of loss.

The Earth's Changing Form

PERSONS inclined to look around for something to worry about may be interested in the quite disturbing disclosures of Dr. Beno Gutenberg, seismologist at the California Institute of Technology.

Sea level over the world has risen four inches in the past 100 years, he says, and is still rising. The southern part of Hudson Bay is rising so that in 30,000 to 40,000 years that great arm of the sea will be the size of a millpond. The northern part of Lake Superior has risen almost two feet in a century. The land south of a line running through Boston, Cleveland and Milwaukee is slowly sinking. In California it is sinking at the rate of three inches in 100 years.

The earth's crust, the instruments show, rests on a sort of fluid cushion. When weight is lifted from one place, that area rises. Fluid flows in from surrounding areas, lowering them. Areas that lie under the great glaciers have been steadily rising as the glaciers recede and may rise still more, but the movement will be one progressively slower.

The rise in sea level is caused by changes on the ocean floor, melting ice and sediment carried down by rivers.

But as these changes are measured in inches and centuries there is no apparent reason to become greatly disturbed, especially in the face of much more imminent dangers.

The government is said to be closing in on another big Chicago gambler for alleged tax evasion—and refusing to match him, double or nothing.

Simile: As useless as a diploma from the Electoral College.

Real Election Comes In January

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Roosevelt isn't re-elected yet, but you'll be safe in giving much better odds than those offered before November 5 that he will be.

Just how many times in the last 150 years this quadrennial joke has been aired in the nation's journals is anybody's guess. But it's true that Franklin D. Roosevelt will not be re-elected for the third time until January 6.

On that date, Congress will assemble in joint session at 1 p. m. (Eastern standard time) with Vice-President John N. Garner in the chair. As president of the Senate, Mr. Garner will open the electoral certificates sent in under seal by the various states, hand them over to the tellers (two members of the House and two of the Senate).

The tellers will tally them and hand the results back to Mr. Garner, who then (barring some catastrophe that never has happened before when the popular vote stacked up anything like it did November 5) will announce that Mr. Roosevelt is re-elected by an electoral vote of 449 to 82. He will follow that with the announcement that Henry A. Wallace was elected vice-presiby the same vote.

Then—and not until then—will President Roosevelt and Vice-President Wallace be constitutionally elected to their high offices.

This is the final chapter of the election. The first was that first Tuesday in November. The second will occur on December 16 (the first Monday after the second Wednesday) when the duly elected electors assemble at their state capitals and cast their ballots, make and sign certificates of their votes, and forward one of these certificates by registered mail to the president of the Senate.

It's Not Required.

THE electoral college system, set up by the Constitution, is about the queerest method of election anywhere in the world. Oddly enough, there is no stipulation that an elector has to vote as directed by the vote in his state. As a matter of fact, two alumni of the electoral college have won their little paragraphs in the history books by voting other than as directed.

In 1796, Samuel Miles, named as an Adams elector in Pennsylvania, cast his ballot for Thomas Jefferson, drawing this comment from an irate Federalist: "What? Do I chuse Samuel Miles to determine for me whether John Adams or Thomas Jefferson shall be president? No! I chuse him to act, not to think."

The other electoral collegian who went astray was William Plumer of New Hampshire, who, in 1820, cast the only electoral vote against James Monroe. The story is that he did this to preserve for Washington the honor of being the only president elected unanimously. Some historians call this story just another bit of school history-book bunk and insist that Mr. Plumer had a sincere and violent dislike for the gentleman from Virginia.

Three times, however, has the electoral college failed to elect a president. Once it failed to name a vice-president. John Q. Adams and Thomas Jefferson both failed to get electoral majorities and were elected to the presidency by the house of representatives. Martin Van Buren's vice-president, Richard M. Johnson, failed to get a majority and was elected by the senate. Both methods are provided in the Constitution in case the electoral college doesn't offer a majority vote. Rutherford B. Hayes also failed to get a majority but was elected by an electoral commission, made up of representatives, senators and Supreme Court justices.

Have Been Feted.

MOST politicians agree with the "irate Federalist" that electors are named to act, not think, and for the most part, being named an elector is about as empty and anonymous a national honor as could be imagined.

In 1932 and 1936, the grateful Democratic committee brought the electoral college to Washington for a sort of graduation fiesta. The college "graduates" were wined, dined, backslapped and given the keys to the capital. This year, the committee is no less grateful but it hasn't decided yet whether it will bring the college in for a third-term blow-out.

I gathered it depends more on the state of the national committee's treasury than on the degree of gratitude for those 449 votes.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Nov. 20, 1920.

Word was received of the death, in New York, of Mrs. Roberta Bulkley, former Mansfield resident, widow of Charles H. Bulkley and mother of Robert J. Bulkley, of Cleveland.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Shank, Library Court, moved to Pittsburgh to make future home.

Parent-Teacher association was organized at Bellville for Bellville-Jefferson district.

John Weil completed 20 years of service in Mansfield Masonic lodges, during which time Mansfield lodge No. 35 grew from a membership of 204 to 1,102.

Mrs. Caroline Otto, Rae avenue, was injured when struck by auto on West Fourth street at Sycamore.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Chalmer L. Heston, Springfield township.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Wednesday, Nov. 20, 1935.

One hundred Richland county Farm bureau members left to attend annual state convention in Columbus.

Mrs. Metta Zimmerman, 76, died.

Paul L. Kelley was re-elected to the seventh term as city auditor, after a recount of votes.

Announcement was made that the buildings of the Richland county fairgrounds would receive a new coat of paint.

Sherman Bowden was named chairman of the board of directors of Ohio State Poultry association.

Makings of a Flag

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

IT HAPPENED during the First World War. I was working as a miner, far back in the sun-seared ranges of California's "Mother Lode" gold country, miles from the nearest town. Yet, remote as we were, war's grisly fingers had touched us.

Sons, sweethearts, husbands, brothers one by one, they'd been called from their cattle ranges and mining pans and sent "Over There." Now, we who waited, spent every spare moment on relief. Bandages, pajamas, socks—we'd stitched and knitted them by the score. Flying fingers kept back the tears, the moments of screaming panic.

So the relief pile grew. When it was finished, we were to have a "rally" in the settlements, at a make-shift dance hall—a rambling, windowless shack with a hundred miles of empty wilderness on either side. Perhaps you'll think that was meager makings for a patriotic meeting, but no White House banquet ever loomed more gloriously in prospect.

There were hardly 50 people in the settlement itself but, with the night, 500 would come riding up from the flats, down from the peaks, on rarin' cayuses and in battered flivvers. Cowboys, shepherds, miners, outlaws, smelling of sheep dip and pomade, saddle leather and sweat, in they'd come, tethering to their plank seats, leaving, by immemorial custom, their spurs 'n' 'shootin' irons' outside. For a brief night, the glory, wonder and terror of a war-torn world would fill that dingy shack.

Only one thing was lacking for the event—a big flag. One might be ordered from San Francisco, but cash was rarer than ring-tailed monkeys in that penniless desert. Yet a flag must be found. The answer was obvious. We'd make one, and did.

You'd smile at the stuff we used. Worn-out overalls for the blue . . . flannel shirts for the red . . . old sheets and flour sacks for the white. Scraps and strips laboriously stitched by hand . . . hands through which flowed a variety of bloods—English, Mexican, American, Spanish, German, Italian, Chilean, Australian. Different bloods, different viewpoints, different plans of life. Yet there, around that makeshift flag, they met and fused into one dream and purpose, as our fathers had hoped they might.

Even the scraps with which we worked were touched with the beauty and deep meaning of that first American vision.

These shirts had lain on the shoulders of men who had been little better than slaves in their own country, yet now were free men, working out their own destiny in peace and pride. Those sacks had carried the simple, basic food of a land where no man need starve. And all the mystery of Birth and Death had touched these coarse old sheets.

There, in that crude flag, lay the makings of America!

A flag made of rags? No, a flag made of dreams, of honest toil and simple happiness, equality and self-respect. No city flag, with its silk and gold braid, could touch, in sacredness, those sweat-stained stripes, those tear-stained stars.

And thinking back today, I know this, beyond all questioning—never again will America regain her old-time vision and vigor until her children return to the simple faith and love, labor and loyalty from which that flag was made!

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Britain Sustained by Hope of Aid; London Is 'Verdun of This War'

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The uncensored facts reaching here in the diplomatic pouch indicate that British cities are taking a far worse beating than the public realizes. The destruction of Coventry was just one eye-opener.

One friendly observer just back from England describes London—probably quite accurately—as the Verdun of the present war.

London is the battle on which the outcome of the war may depend. But the difference is that the punishment at Verdun was borne by seasoned troops, while women, children, civilians and supply factories remained far behind the lines. In London the situation is just as if women and children, hospitals and munition plants were right up in the front line trenches.

Under this bombardment, all observers report, the courage of the British people is heroic in the extreme. Watchers remain on the rooftops while bombs rain around them at the rate of one a minute. The watchers are supposed to spot bombs as they fall, since more and more bombs are now of the delayed-action variety, and have to be carried off to an isolated place before they explode.

The watchers laugh, joke and call out from adjoining rooftops, but they never leave their posts.

During the night many people cannot sleep, so they take catnaps in the daytime. You see London stenographers sleeping in strange places, sometimes at their desks, sometimes in corridors. And there is complete tolerance on the part of employers toward sleeping employes.

England Looks to U. S. A.

DESPITE this heroism, the American public might as well look the facts squarely in the face—namely, that few people in Great Britain would continue this suffering if they were not confident that very vigorous, major help was coming from the United States.

In fact, most of the British people, much as they are suffering, do not have any full idea of the danger which the Empire faces. Two main categories of information are held back from them: (1) the amount of damage done to factories, especially munitions works; and (2) the terrific toll of British shipping.

In a general way, of course, it is realized that Hitler's present plan is to starve out England, while still continuing to subject London to tragic air raids. But most of the population have little idea how desperately the Empire today needs ships.

Note—Britain has now received in trade or for cash 50 U. S. destroyers and 30 old Shipping Board vessels. But the time is not far off when new requests for U. S. ships will be forthcoming.

Hull's Squirrely Friend.

WHEN the secretary of state goes to call on the president, sometimes he is escorted across the street by a socially ambitious grey squirrel named Pete.

To get to the White House, Mr. Hull has only to cross West Executive avenue. Park Policeman Ed Costello is there to stop the traffic, and hopping along behind Costello comes the squirrel. The last time Secretary Hull crossed the avenue, he noticed his beady-eyed escort, and said to Costello, "Who's your friend?"

"That's Pete," said the officer.

Another day when Hull came out of the state department at lunch time, he found Officer Costello and George Klenk, chauffeur to Sumner Welles, staging an act with Pete. The squirrel was jumping from the arms of one to the arms of the other, on call. Fascinated, Hull watched for five minutes before he drove off to his hotel.

Klenk is worried about Pete's street-strolling habits. "That little beggar is going to get killed some day," he says.

* * *

Red Jobholders.

Under the present CIO set-up, the president (Lewis) fills all administrative and organizing posts. Actually, the executive board is supposed to pass on appointments, but it is so cumbersome that its approval is short-circuited. Lewis even selected the place and date of the CIO convention, notifying the board of his decision after he made it.

Thus the appointing power gives the CIO president a chance to build up a potent personal machine of office-holders—which Lewis has used to the limit.

Some of these key subordinates are militant left-wingers. Chief among them are Lee Pressman, general counsel, and first to congratulate Lewis after his broadcast for Willkie; and Len DeCaux, press chief, editor of various CIO publications, who donned a Willkie button after Lewis' bolt.

One of the first things on the agenda of the anti-Lewis group is to get rid of Pressman, DeCaux and other Lewis henchmen. They plan to do this by abolishing the present ineffectual executive board and setting up instead a six-man agency which will really function as a supervisory body.

The left-wingers have no illusions about their fate if the antis win control. That's why they are battling so vehemently. It's the axe if they lose and some of them will find it mighty hard to land other sinecures.

Calico Treaty.

AMID the millions the government will spend this month will be an item of $4,500 to meet the obligations of the oldest and most successful treaty signed by the United States.

This is the famous "calico" treaty concluded on November 11, 1794, with the Six Nations of Iroquois Indians in New York state. Under this pact the government pledged to distribute annually "several yards" of calico to each member of the Cayuga, Onandaga, Oneida, Tuscarora, Tonawanda and Allegany tribes in return for their "peace and friendship."

For nearly 150 years this treaty has been faithfully kept and this year 3,300 members of the six tribes will receive their "payment" at Salamanca, N. Y. Each Indian will have a choice of six yards of printed percale or twelve yards of unbleached sheeting.

Hard-working and proud, the Iroquois insist on the cloth instead of its equivalent in cash, and John Collier, able Indian commissioner, has arranged that the terms of the ancient treaty be carried out with pomp and ceremony.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Want a little romance, a little heart-skip, a little disillusionment, with maybe a little remorse and a good, sound real estate tip? Want to think of a plot for a short story, or a thread for a novel, or maybe a background for a symphonic movement? If so, we recommend for your perusal the agony columns of the metropolitan newspapers—the public notices where, in little sprays of heart-broken type (at 90 cents a line), the age-old story of boy-meets-girl, boy-loses girl is told every single day.

LET'S turn to today's public notices and see what we see:

"CHET"—Don't let your pride keep you from coming home. We understand perfectly. Mother."

"M—I offer thanks for having known you and I pray to the fulfillment of our dreams. Love. H."

"RAE—Don't worry over me. I am well and working. Eddie."

"MARION—Please meet me at Mother's. I am sure we can settle our problems. Pete."

"ED—Mal is prostrated. Everything will be arranged. Think of Mother. Urgent you return at once. We need you. Strictly confidential. Sol (brother-in-law)."

"JOHN—Aunt Ella has your birth certificate. You will need this when you apply for your driver's license. Happy birthday. Cathie."

"BARBARA—Send Janet Back to school. Uncle Bob will take care of tuition fees. I will take care of rest. Margaret."

"MY WIFE, Carmen, left my home and board. I am not responsible for any debt incurred by her. S. C. P."

"WANTED—Name of owner of dog which bit girl, 86th street and Broadway, Wednesday. Information desired only to permit examination of dog. L.234 Times."

"HARRY—Job open. Everything O. K. Contact me (your wife), Leilla."

"K. T.—Real estate agent en route to Florida to look over our property. Communicate with Uncle Harry. Hold out for $5,000. L. C."

THE more I look through these notices the more I am convinced O. Henry himself was an agony column fan. All the old Four Million are here (they're 7,000,000 now) . . . The Cabbages and Kings.

Boy meets girl. . . . Dog bites girl . . . Boy loses girl. . . . Come home, all forgiven. . . . I won't pay my wife's debts. . . . We can work out our problems, honey. I know we can, if you will meet me at mother's.

In some of these notices you will find material for a sermon or a play. If Johnny hasn't got his birth certificate, they won't issue him a driver's livense. This may seem funny to you, but not to Johnny.

A Farmer's Diary

B'rer Rabbit

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

TODAY I saw a drama that delighted me. The stage was the hill above our house, furnished with radiant sumac, green briers, and thorny brambles. A lively hunting hound, a wary rabbit, and a hunter with his gun were the actors. I was the audience, standing at attention on our barn bridge.

The hound trotted swiftly along a rabbit trail, tail high, nose close against the ground. Occasionally he stopped and raised his head impatiently to look around. He had invaded rabbit territory and bunny was well prepared. His five-inch trails that ended nowhere but led through thickest brush and briers and thorny tangles were puzzling to his pursuer.

Once I saw the rabbit run 50 feet ahead, then turn left upon a well-known road, then left again sharply. The hound was crazy with the freshness of the scent, and yelped with glee at the nearness of his victim. When the rabbit was even with his enemy I saw him raise slightly on his haunches, then still higher, until he could see the dog going the other way. I'm sure if I had been a little closer, I would have seen a grin on his sober face. He actually waited until the dog was bearing down upon him, then hopped into a secluded mat of trailing green briers.

The dog barked in a high pitched voice and plunged gamely in pursuit, where he had seen the rabbit go. The tough spiny canes seemed to await his coming and close around his head and neck. He yelped with biting pain and wounded pride and slunk with low-swung tail and a piteous tail toward his master, who stood upon higher ground. The rabbit had disappeared, "frozen" in his tracks.

After a moment, the hunter placed a consoling hand upon the bleeding nose and ears and the dog was comforted. Then went on across the hillside, baffled—an outwitted pair.

No doubt the rabbit watched their departure from his sheltered nook. In less than 20 minutes, I saw him hop, in leisurely fashion, down the steep bank onto the gravel highway, cross it hurriedly, then race faster until his white tail disappeared underneath the front porch of our house.

I judge this must be home to him, for I have heard him rustling in the leaves beneath the planks for several weeks, at night. Since snow came, I have noticed his tracks going in and out. Morning always finds him quiet and at rest. These moonlight nights are frolic times for him.

Timely Editorial

It Depends on The Enemy.

Alfred P. Sloan, jr., thinks the five-day week should give way to one of six days whenever the defense program finally may "take up the slack" of unemployment.

Whether that actually comes to pass probably will depend on how serious the international situation looks at the time labor shortage develops, if it does develop.

One thing is certain. If it comes down to a question of actually defending the country, neither labor nor capital will be drawing overtime pay; nor will they expect it, any more than British labor and capital now expect it.

President Roosevelt months ago promised no sacrifice of "labor's gains" in the interests of defense. But he himself would have to amend that declaration under the circumstances mentioned. Wars nowadays are won or lost in a nation's shops. They cannot be won on a 40-hour week with time and a half for overtime—at least not unless the enemy graciously will adopt the same schedule.—Detroit News.
